

Cars Wrecked Near Hospital

Mrs. Maggie Holt Thrown to Pavement in Crash

Cuts and bruises were suffered last Sunday afternoon by Mrs. Maggie Holt, 48, of Hillsboro in an automobile accident at the crossroads, just west of the county hospital. The Holt car was demolished and Mrs. Holt thrown to the pavement. Mr. J. Holt, who was driving, was uninjured.

The accident happened when Holt attempted to make a left hand turn into the street and a car driven by Eldon May of Portland crashed into the front end of the Holt machine. Eldon was going toward Portland, Holt said, and hugged the gravel shoulder of the highway instead of taking to the center.

Stitches were necessary to close three cuts on Mrs. Holt's ear, he said in reporting the accident. When the wrecking car was attempting to pick up the wreck, a machine driven by George Overstreet, a state highway employe, crashed into the ditch in an attempt to avoid a head-on collision with the wrecker, it was reported. The Overstreet car was saved from turning over by the steep banks of the ditch. None was injured, according to Sheriff John Council.

A report made late in the week by Harriett Lees of Portland declared that she was bruised in a head-on collision on the Cornell road March 29.

Myrtle Coleman, 27, and her daughter, Beverly, 8, were bruised about the back and sides Sunday afternoon at Banks when the car in which they were riding, driven by Harry Coleman of Vernonia, crashed with a truck driven by Kenneth Nottingham of Portland. The accident happened near the Banks high school on the main highway when Nottingham turned out to pass a car parked on the wrong side of the street and failed to swing back to his side of the highway in time to avoid Coleman, according to the accident report.

Townsend Speaker Gives Plan Outline

The first purpose of the plan, he explained, is to put into circulation and keep in circulation the purchasing power necessary to lift business to a prosperity level and keep it there. This could be done, he said, by placing $200 a month in the hands of eight million old persons who would be compelled to spend that amount each month.

In his argument he mentioned the soldiers' adjusted compensation pay, which he declared was proving a big stimulation to business at the present time, but would only be paid once and consequently would only serve as a stimulant once.

This nation, he declared, is over a volcano and no one knows just what is going to happen. It is the greatest of effects might be should something happen. The Townsend plan would forestall any such calamity, he said and wealth would be made secure should the plan be adopted.

Unemployment, he pointed out, is the greatest problem at present, with innumerable boys and girls wandering up and down the country seeking employment. They have nothing ahead of them, he said. This question of unemployment must be answered, Burr declared, and the Townsend plan is the best friend of youth.

He pointed out that when a better plan was offered the Townsend members would forsake the present organization for the other.

Clower and Grass Can be Increased

(Continued from page 1) to add and return plant food to such land every year or as needed then the crop yields remain satisfactory.

In 1933 following the crop freeze out of December, 1932, quite a number of dairymen in the county seeded sudan grass, some for hay and quite a lot of it was used for pasture. Naturally opinions differ as to the value of the crop. Quite a number of dairy farmers have found it to be valuable as summer pasture. It requires more land to carry a given number of cattle than some other pastures do, noticeably, ladino clover or canary grass, but generally dairymen are carrying about one cow per acre on this through the summer months. When it is seeded about June 1, it is usually ready to pasture by the middle of July.

Trouble with Lights When a light fuse burns out frequently the trouble can often be traced to the short-circuiting of an ignition wire, according to the Oregon State Motor association. The source of the difficulty usually can be found where wires chafe on the frame or other metal portions of the car.
