Hillsboro Scouts

District's Highest

quota was over-subscribed in four hours' work, the balance being used to settle a previous deficit.

This quota is Hillsboro's portion, based on population of the expenses of the Portland area council, which includes 15 other centers including that of Portland. This money maintains a headquarters office, provides professional supervision and training of the organization, activities, mailing, telephone, secretarial service, adequate records, travel expense, printing, and other contingent expenses.

Loren Bronleewe, Jack Howes, and Sidney Seymour, all of Troop 216, have already signed up for the third period at Camp Merriweather, July 22 to August 5. It is expected that over 15 scouts from Hillsboro will attend Camp Merriweather on the Tillamook coast this year.

The annual district camp for Hillsboro, Forest Grove, Tigard, and Yamhill county scouts will be held at Lee Falls from June 21 to 27. For this camp, scouts bring their own food and prepare it themselves. The camp director, Paul Yeager, is a member of the headquarters staff, will be camp director, assisted by several other scouts.

The father of Miss Sloan came Tuesday night to take the body back to Idaho for burial.

Early Dusting Found Good Method Spittle Bug Control

Dusting with either a nicotine or rotenone dust prior to about the first of May proved effective this season in the control of spittle bug on strawberries, according to W. F. Cyrus county agent. Even though it may have rained shortly after the dust was applied and though only one application was used, results were still satisfactory.

J. S. Miller, a few miles from Sherwood, started dusting part of his strawberries around April 20, using 2 per cent nicotine dust. When it began to rain, he did not dust for a time and did not finish the patch until May 14. That part dusted before May 1 is practically clean so far as spittle bug is concerned. While some kill was made with the later applications, they were not nearly so effective as his first application.

Emil Duyck, near Roy, dusted his patch beginning April 27 with one-half of one per cent rotenone dust, which was applied once, spread out over a period of a week, being put on between showers, at the rate of about 66 pounds per acre. Even under these conditions, this proved effective in cleaning up the spittle bug.

On the W. E. Marr farm, near Kansas City, applications of the rotenone dust were made on April 30, May 8 and May 8 with a nicotine dust being applied on May 8. The results from this patch can be readily seen even on the foliage. The rows that were dusted April 30 show distinctly larger and more foliage. The dusted rows show an average of approximately 3 spittle bugs per plant, while the undusted rows show an average of approximately 60 spittle bugs per plant. Results obtained by these and transient occupant of the "hobo" camp nearby, and attempts to revive the girl after her body was recovered from beneath overhanging brush at the side of the creek, failed. She had been dead about an hour when finally found.

According to the story related to Sheriff John Connell, first on the scene after the fatal accident, the young woman had gone swimming with two younger companions, neither of whom could swim more than a few strokes.

She was the first to enter the water, while one of her companions was donning a bathing suit. She managed to reach the far side of the creek, the other girls related, but sank the first time as she attempted to return.

She returned to the surface three times, apparently, each time further down stream as the current swept her along. The last time seen she was under the overhanging brush in about five feet of water, but apparently was unable to assist herself further.

The girls, who accompanied her, failed to give their names to Sheriff Connell but related that after they knew Miss Sloan was drowned, they proceeded to seek help. Two boys with a car were found who came to the sheriff's office to report, Connell said.

Meanwhile, the transient, hearing the commotion, ran to the scene, but, being unable to swim and not knowing where the body lay, could make only futile attempts at rescue. Later the two boys, who called the sheriff, swam the stream and found the body which was turned over to F. J. Sewell, coroner.

Little is known of the girl except that her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Sloan, live in Jerome. The girl came here about two weeks ago to live with friends, Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Jones and daughter on West Baseline street. She was to have been employed in the Ray-Maling cannery today (Thursday).

The father of Miss Sloan came Tuesday night to take the body back to Idaho for burial.

didate for clerk, again thanked his friends for their vote and called attention to the competition among the five candidates for clerk. They were his friends before the primary and now, he said, he thought they all were better friends than ever.

Grove Plant Called Success

Sums Turned Over to City's Funds Pointed Out

History and success of the Forest Grove municipal light and power system was outlined before the Forest Grove chamber of commerce Monday noon by W. J. McIntosh of Seattle, representing the Fairbanks-Morse company, whose power units are in the plant. Several city officials and others attended from here.

McIntosh said the net operating revenue for 1935 was $23,478.02. During the year $13,827.36 was spent in capital additions. After making all deductions the surplus transferred to the general fund amounted to $10,926.81. He said that if credits were added due to street lighting and other municipal uses the surplus for the year would amount to $15,819.21.

On the basis of taxes paid by the utility serving Hillsboro, McIntosh said the Forest Grove utility would have paid approximately $1500 in taxes for 1935. Of this amount, he said, $1100 would go to the city and the balance to the Forest Grove school and road funds.

Last year, he said, the city plant furnished $4892.40 of free service to the city and deducting the assumed city taxes of $1100, the plant would still have a credit balance of $3792.

Forest Grove, McIntosh said, has received considerable adverse advertising because of its rate structure, but on the other hand the information it has received practically no information as to the amounts diverted to the general fund. Rates in Forest Grove, he said, could be reduced to equal outside rates and under these conditions the plant would still show a profit.

Thomas Milton Pace of Portland paid $5 and costs through his attorney, in Justice Havens' court plea of guilty to passing another automobile when his view ahead was not clear for 500 feet.

Paul J. Greenwood of Portland whose party Saturday night ended in Washington county when he fell into the hands of a deputy sheriff, was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail by Justice Havens when he pleaded guilty to driving while drunk. The jail sentence was suspended.

Woman Dog Owner Must Buy License

Arrested for failure to purchase a dog license, Mrs. M. James of near Aloha was released Tuesday after spending a few hours in Sheriff John Connell's hotel at the court house. She pleaded guilty because she was unable to pay the fee. Sentence was postponed on promise that she would procure the necessary license.

Increases Made in Capacity of Quarry

Declared to be one of the best equipped and most efficient quarries in the northwest, new machinery at Jackson quarry, in the north part of the county, was placed in test operation for the first time Tuesday afternoon, according to Herman Kerkman, commissioner.

The crew, with orders to feed the rock to the crushers as rapidly as possible, could not keep pace with the machine, Kerkman said, with the result that the plant was producing 320 yards of rock per day, an increase from 150 yards.
