

Kansans Visit Banks Home

P. F. Cason Injured While on County Road Work

(By Miss Mary Sandy)

BANKS—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur P. Morrill and children of Frankfort, Kan., arrived in Banks Friday and are visiting Mr. Morrill's uncle, Arthur Morrill. They report the grasshoppers have completely destroyed the crop in the country surrounding Frankfort.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Carl White, Mrs. Tom Engen and daughter Lois visited Leren White, who is ill in the sanitarium at Troutdale.

Mrs. Flora Mumford received a letter written at Miami, Fla., from her son Kenneth, who with Ted Raisig of Portland, is making a motor trip through the south. They have visited the Texas centennial and all the capital cities on their way. They planned to go from Miami to Washington, D. C., and on north to Boston and New York before returning home.

Mrs. W. T. Sellers is spending a few days visiting her sister, Mrs. Harry White, and other relatives in Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Woodman of Capitol Hill and Mrs. M. S. Woodman were week-end visitors at the McGraw home.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Layton and family from McMinnville were week-end visitors at Mrs. Nickerson's home in Banks.

P. F. Cason, who lives west of Banks, while setting choker Monday for a caterpillar on county road west near Buxton, caught two small fingers in a cable and jerked the ends off. He was taken to a doctor who amputated them at the first joint.

Mrs. Flora Mumford and Kenneth Parmley drove to Beneville dam Monday and stayed until Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Mumford.

Miss Moxie Hopkins is spending a few weeks with friends in Seattle.

Mr. and Mrs. John Connell of Hillsboro and Mr. and Mrs. William Moore of Banks spent Sunday picnicking and fishing on Wolf creek.

A family gathering was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chazem in Portland Sunday. Those present were Bernard Sellers, W. T. Sellers and Amos Sellers of Banks; Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Sellers of Hillsboro; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sellers and two children of Iowa Hill and Mr. and Mrs. Chazem and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Hutchens and baby spent several days visiting J. J. Hutchens at Banks.

E. J. Hopkins, who has been depot agent at Seaside for a few weeks, is spending a week at his home here in Banks before taking charge of the depot at Quincy.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Johnson and daughter Fern and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Garrig and baby spent the week-end fishing on the Willson river.

Dale Dreezen is spending a few weeks in Philomath visiting his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. George Moss, and family.

Charles Shipley and Bert Friday visited the Mrs. E. Turner property. They plan to move there as soon as it is possible.

Couple Wed

Miss Margaret Currington of Banks and Albert Koberstein of Hillsboro were married Sunday at Vancouver, Wash.

Twenty-three members of the Banks Epworth League held an outdoor meeting on Gales creek near Glenwood. Following the meeting winners were awarded and games were played. Rev. and Mrs. E. M. Tilton of Yamhill accompanied them.

Ernie Tucker, who was working in a garage in Portland, is now working in Nertly Plains in Tom Stigum machine shop.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Wahl and sons John and Bryce of Portland visited at the Fred Wolford home

Benares, India

Benares, situated on the left bank of the Sacred Ganges, is the oldest city in India. It was a large and flourishing city 600 years before the Christian era. For Buddha, who was born 558, B. C., came here to preach the new doctrine, though the city of Buddhist, Sarnath, now lies in ruins.

The feeling of the Christian for Jerusalem and of the Mohammedan for Mecca are surpassed by the reverence with which the ancient city is regarded by millions of Hindus wherever they are found. Though Hindus may be poor and live miles away, it is their life's ambition to make a pilgrimage to the Holy City of Benares and bathe in the holy waters of "Mother Ganges." The city, I. e. the better part of the city is mostly made up of the palaces of Indian Princes, who go to Benares for a few weeks every year. Thousands of people leave their homes and family year after year to come here hoping that they may die in this city of sanctity, for to die in Benares is an exemption from the "samsara" or cycle of incarnation, and instead are transported to heaven. At the very top-back of their heads all Hindus let grow a long tuft of hair, by which they believe they will be drawn into heaven.

I hired a boat and was rowed first down the Ganges. Here one can see thousands of devotees of all ages and situations in life bathing in the drinkable, muddy water. These bathing ghats are mostly giant stairways leading down from the banks into the river. Priests give instruction beneath spreading umbrellas, caste marks are rubbed on the forehead, and dried, huggs brass water jugs are all with a quiet and dignified sobriety. Hindus who live in or near Benares do this each morning before anything else is undertaken.

Close by, but not up to the river, are the burning ghats, where I had the most unusual good fortune of being on the river and in that particular vicinity just as they were building a pyre to burn a body. I urged the men to row faster, as I saw them place the body on the pyre so that I could get a motion picture of the procedure. I was close enough to start my picture just as they were placing the one row of wood over the body. This was a woman, because the body was wrapped in red cloth. Had it been a man it would have been wrapped in white. The pyre of wood underneath the body, about four feet high, which would indicate the family was fairly well off to buy so much wood. Under the body is so placed the nearest relative strips off his or her garments. First, the body is put on a new cloth, goes to the priest in the temple nearby and returns, then he takes a small bundle of rice straw, lights it and walks around the pyre five times, after which he family budgets, purchase of machinery and livestock.

The resettlement administration of this county has been of great aid, also, in assisting in relocating and rehabilitating farm families driven from the drought areas of the middle west and who have come to this part of Oregon seeking new homes in a more abundant state.

Madsen is high in his praise of these families, declaring that he has found them co-operative and willing, attacking their jobs with common sense and a willingness to work.

Resettlement also deals with soil and land surveys designed to find suitable places for settlement by middle-western farm families of which about 9,000 have moved in to the states of Washington, Oregon and Idaho.

Third Spray Urged for Valley Growers

(By Wm. F. Cyrus, County Agent)

Apple and pear growers of the Willamette valley should apply the third cover spray now for the control of codling moth. "Second brood moths have been emerging for the past two or three days and last night a considerable number of eggs were laid," says B. G. Thompson, assistant entomologist, Oregon Experiment station, Corvallis. Under ordinary Willamette valley weather conditions, these eggs will hatch in seven or eight days. The spray should be applied before these eggs hatch.

The recommended spray is powdered calcium arsenate used at the rate of 3 pounds to 100 gallons of water. In orchards where codling moth is not a serious problem, two pounds of powdered lead arsenate to 100 gallons of water is sufficient to give control.

Calcium arsenate, used at the rate of 3 pounds powdered calcium arsenate to 100 gallons of water, has been used successfully in the Willamette valley for codling moth control. Tests carried on by the Entomology department of the Oregon Experiment station over a period of five years indicate that under Willamette valley conditions calcium arsenate is only slightly less effective than lead arsenate in codling moth control.

Thoroughness of application is essential in codling moth control. The foliage as well as the entire surface of every apple and pear

Canadians Visit at Mountain Home

(By Mrs. Mable Allison)

MOUNTAIN HOME—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bruce of Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Bruce. The men are brothers.

Berry harvest in this district is being completed this week, with a lower yield than that of last year. Cheneaux Mountain potato club met at the J. J. Goetz on Friday evening. August meeting is scheduled to be at the George Allison home.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Myers have gone to Vancouver, Wash., where they are employed in mining boxes.

Many Mountain Home folk are attending the summer camp of the Evangelical church at Jennings Lodge this week.
