Oregon's insured fire loss during 1935 was the lowest in the past 15 years, according to Hugh H. Earle, state fire marshal. Matches and careless smokers were the greatest source of fires during the year, a survey of Earle's department revealed.

CONNECTICUT YANKEE

There came into the Mission here on the Skyway this hot afternoon a boy from Hartford, Conn. He left home in June after school was out and hitch-hiked across the country. A dollar had come into his hands in Seattle yesterday; he had eaten this morning and said he would be in to-night for a bite.

If he does come he will hear the songs of the young people who are to handle the service. Then our boy will line up and move on to the coffee and two slices of bread with cheese or something between. He will sleep on a park bench as like as not; if it were a cold night we would see that he had a bed—being so young and just out from home. And he may get aboard the GOSPEL SPECIAL before the young people get through witnessing and singing and their Bible man showing the way.

Come As You Are—Just lately we heard from one of those who make up the stream that flows through a Gospel Mission. They come and go and we think nothing has happened.

It was up in Spokane that an old man came to his feet in one of their halls—"I was down in Portland, Oregon, a while back," so the man began. "And I went into the Mission there on Third near Burnside, Union Gospel Mission. The man who preached said something that touched my heart and I put my head down between my hands right where I was sitting there and told the Lord I would obey him."

It seems that next morning our friend was lonesome and hungry and felt his age. He told the Lord he would obey Him.

36c Ad Brings Quick Results

"Sold the Jersey bull advertised by noon the day the paper came out," writes Snerwin Shoales of Reedville. "Another man answered the ad immediately afterwards and then they started coming in earnest. The ad sure got results and nearly ran me ragged. I made the sale before the ink on your paper was dry."

Such experiences are not uncommon for Argus classified users. This advertisement cost Shoales only 36 cents.

The more than 2500 families that receive the Argus weekly insure the advertiser of a ready market.

Nothing stops me now

I can work when others can't

It takes an unusual tractor to bring a statement like that from a farmer. Yet, owners are saying this and other good things right along about the new Case Model "C" Tractor.

As a matter of fact, it is an unusual tractor, unusual because of its combination of dependable power and light weight—just slightly more than that of two draft horses. With a light stepping tractor like that you can do things not possible with ordinary machines. Instead of sitting around waiting for the fields to dry up completely, you can be out there days ahead of others and get your work done on time.

That's a tremendous advantage which adds to the tractor's usefulness and ability to earn. Another thing, because of the absence of superfluous weight, more of the power is put to work pulling pay loads.

If you want a tractor that will help you show a larger profit this year—get a Case—either the Model "C" or the larger Model "L". Come in and inspect these tractors and the many other Case farm machines we are showing. Do it now.
