Views and Counter Views on the Great Political Parade

EDITOR'S NOTE—The political columns appearing in this paper under the two major party headings are prepared by the heads of the county committees and should not be considered as the view of the publishers. Space has been granted by the Argus so that both parties may give their side of what they consider to be the issues. The desire of the Argus in serving this community is to be fair to all and to be a newspaper of record for the people rather than of any particular group.

Republican
(Arranged under the direction of Judge Donald T. Templeton, chairman of the Republican county central committee)

History soon will have recorded the presidential election of 1936. Both candidates seem to be confident of victory. Conceivably, and very probably the contest will be the closest since 1916 when the electoral votes of one state decided the issue.

The questions to be determined on November 3 are momentous—they reach into the very foundations of our national existence. They affect vitally the welfare of every living human being in the United States, and also the millions yet unborn. We are either passing on to our children and their children a heritage of prosperity, happiness and contentment or we are plunging them through nebulous and untried theories into a maelstrom of debt, chaos and despair. The decision and the responsibility is ours. America is making history—we stand at the parting of the ways!

On the one hand is constitutional government with its three departments, each as a check and balance against the other. The other hand is the blood and suffering of the founders of this nation; on the other hand lies the road of visionary and fantastic theories without chart or compass, which can lead only to national bankruptcy, and finally to fascism and a dictatorship.

Let those who are now so ardent in their support of Mr. Roosevelt live for six months under the iron hand of the dictator and they would be the first to gnash their teeth at an abrogation of their constitutional rights.

Democratic
(Supervised by Ed. L. Moore, Chairman Democratic County Central Committee) (By Charles Michelson, Director of Publicity, Democratic National Committee)

As the campaign draws to a close, we may look for some last minute sensational utterance from the republican, or duPont Liberty league, or the political fence.

Ultra Conservative Authority Predicts Balanced Budget

The president says, basing his statement on treasury figures, that the budget will be balanced in a year or two. His critics, however, carry the national debt for the year except where they jibe with their own ideas. Now comes Moody's, the most conservative, matter of fact non-governmental authority we have, and solemnly tells us that if out of what calendar years in a business year as 1936 has been, the budget would be balanced. The explanation is that the estimate for 1937 indicates an increase in the government's income of a billion and a half and a billion decrease in its expenditures.

It's the Old Standpat Spirit

More recently, one of the prospective presidential electors in New York was accused of being a Communist, and thereby it was sought to show that the original leashed story up with facsimiles of cipher messages to which were attached the translations. It developed that they were all clumsy forgeries, but nothing much happened. I do not think the newspapers even troubled to apologize for the publication.

Mr. Roosevelt has said, in effect, that he did not seek and did not want the support of any subversive influence, which is inimical to our democratic form of government, and yet his program is sufficiently divergent from it to enlist the open and unqualified approval of Mr. Browder, the communist candidate for president. Mr. Browder knows he cannot be elected president, so he seeks to carry on through a medium which most nearly conforms to that which he represents.

We can purchase our economic security at too great a cost. If it means the surrendering of our liberty, then we are robbed of every desire to create and accomplish. It is time for us to analyze the sinister influences that are at work through the administration for a complete change in our form of government.
