Are You As Honest As a Chinaman?

It is said that a Chinaman always pays or satisfactorily arranges to pay all his bills the first of the year. Remember, your town is just as strong financially as the financial rating of its business houses.

They—the business and professional men—are just as strong as the financial rating of the people. If you—the people—don't make an honest effort to pay or part pay your past due accounts, you cast a reflection on your city as the Merchants and Professional men must maintain their credit rating with their wholesale houses. Let's start now and make a New Year resolution to try and pay or part pay on your past due accounts.

When you receive one of our copywritten letters bearing our registered trademarks please try to take care of this at once. Lose your credit rating and you lose something you may never regain.
