Income Taxes Cut by Auto

When you sit down with a dozen sharp pencils and a bottle of aspirin to figure out your income tax for 1936, don't forget the ducks.

That's advice from Nash-LaFayette headquarters here where J. C. Edwards has listed the deductions allowable on automobiles, and which he passes along for the information of all motorists.

Deductions which automobile owners are allowed to make in computing their taxable income include the following," Edwards says: All sums paid during the calendar year as registration fees, personal property taxes and municipal taxes. Interest on money borrowed for the purchase of an automobile. The amount of financing charges on automobiles purchased which covers the interest on the loan, when specifically set forth in the contract, but not the amount covering the premium on insurance to protect the finance company's interest.

All operating and maintenance expense, including depreciation, in automobiles used wholly for business, or a pro rata share of such expense, representing business use where a passenger car is used chiefly (more than 50 per cent) for business. Depreciation usually is figured at 25 per cent per annum.

Automobile insurance on autos for business purposes. Uncompensated losses sustained by reason of damage to automobiles used for business or pleasure.

Damage provided for injuries to persons or for destruction of property provided the automobile at the time of the accident was being used for business.

Loss sustained when a car used for business is sold outright at a price less than its depreciated value. No deduction can be made for the amount paid for an automobile used for either business or pleasure, this being a capital expenditure and subject to claim for depreciation where the automobile is used for business.

There is no penalty for failure to carry out any of the practices or to make any crop acreage diversion. Operators should remember that they will only be able to make application for payments later if they have filed their crop data. Failure to file the required information before the closing time will mean exclusion from any grants later on.

Legal blanks, 5c and 10c. A complete supply available at the Hillsboro Argus.

Rule Not Fixed Because the various rates mentioned have been established for the different practices, it does not always mean that operators get $2 for every acre of red clover seeded or $3 for every ton of lime applied. In some instances the allowance for a particular farm is greater than the total for practices that could be efficiently put into operation this year. On other farms practices an operator might desire in 1937, will exceed the farm allowance. It all depends upon the particular farm set-up.

Voluntary performance is the basis of the entire plan. Filing crop data does not obligate an operator to follow any of suggested practices. This is notably different than the old wheat and corn-hog contracts where operator obligated himself to certain specific things.

There is no penalty for failure to carry out any of the practices or to make any crop acreage diversion. Operators should remember that they will only be able to make application for payments later if they have filed their crop data. Failure to file the required information before the closing time will mean exclusion from any grants later on.
