

Ireland Again Named Officer Dairy Co-op

Arthur Ireland was re-elected vice-president of the Portland Dairy Co-operative association at the annual meeting in Portland Friday and Henry Hagg of Reedville was re-elected director for Washington and Yamhill counties. All officers of the association were returned to office.

The co-operative took steps to get firmer grip on their membership by voting to do their own hauling, and arrangements are being made to acquire 30 trucks to handle the freighting. The trucks will pick up milk of members only leaving small independent dairymen to shift for themselves.

Some of the members who do their own hauling may be permitted to continue but will forfeit some of the privileges enjoyed by others, it was agreed. There are 1500 members of the association who will participate in the division of $151,869.93 in profits for the past year.

District Governor of Rotary Visits

Charles Mowry of Spokane, district governor of Rotary International, made an official visit to the local Rotary club Thursday. The governor talked on the principle of Rotary and stressed the importance of "The Golden Rule," in activities of the members, citing the need for every member assuming individual responsibility in furtherance of the ideals.

He declared that it was more important that Rotarians be active in all affairs of the community, civic and governmental, than that the club have a program of community activity.

Governor Mowry met with the board of directors, committee chairmen and others interested in a dinner meeting at the Pharmacy Thursday night.

Forestry Service Seeking Blacksmith

Blacksmith-welders, to fill vacancies in the U. S. forest areas, are being sought by the United States Civil Service commission, it was announced this week. Applications must be on file with the manager, eleventh U. S. civil service district, federal building, Seattle, not later than February 27.

Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place but will be rated on their experience and fitness. Additional information may be obtained through Fred Holzman, civil service clerk, post office, Hillsboro.

Other examinations announced include radio inspector, $2000 a year and junior billing-bookkeeping machine operator $1440.

Several Injured in Auto Accidents

Cetus Kirsch, Tigard route 1, is recovering from injuries received Monday when he was struck by an alleged hit-and-run driver. The car was found by Mrs. Virgil Meyers lying in an unconscious condition near a hedge next the road in front of her home, according to a sheriff's report.

Leonard Magstadt was injured Saturday in an auto accident at Tigard when cars driven by William F. McKinley of Portland and Albert Bonafight of Scholls collided.

Alfred N. Whealdon, Beaverton, suffered a severe scalp wound Thursday morning in an auto accident near Beaverton when a car driven by Fred W. German of Portland skidded on ice and crashed into the Whealdon machine. Miss Edna Morsters, passenger in the German car, also was slightly injured.

Orson J. Gillett Funeral Friday

Orson J. Gillett, 85, resident here since 1912, died Tuesday night at his home on Baseline street. Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Methodist church with burial in the Hillsboro cemetery under the direction of Young's Funeral Home.

He was born in Sheffield, Ohio, December 9, 1859, and as a young man he moved to Nebraska, where he lived for five years before moving to Chicago and later to Hillsboro, where he established the first commercial cannery.

This cannery was sold in a few years to Harry Ray and later the establishment became the Ray-Maling cannery. He is survived by a son, Clifton W. of Hillsboro, and a sister, Mrs. Carrie Porter of Ohio. His wife died in 1930.

Honorary pall-bearers Friday will be Joseph Connell, Harvey Huff, C. N. Shipley, and C. C. Beers, while the active will be H. I. Paten, L. E. Wilkes, W. J. Price, W. H. Bucher, F. O. Eagon, and C. C. Bannister.

Sabin Rites Held Here on Monday

Funeral services for Ezra Sabin, 58, who died Friday in the home of his mother, Mrs. Mary Sabin, in Hillsboro, were held Monday afternoon from Young's Funeral home with burial in the I. O. O. F. cemetery.

He was the son of the late Aurelius Sabin, who was born in North Lawrence, N. Y., June 21, 1878, and had been a resident of Hillsboro since 1900. Surviving are his mother and two sisters, Mrs. Ora Laws, Hillsboro, and Mrs. E. G. Wilson, Seattle.

Rites Held Here for F. Dauberman

Funeral services for Fred Dauberman, Hillsboro, who died Tuesday were held yesterday afternoon (Wednesday) from the Donelson & Sewell funeral chapel with burial in the county cemetery. He was born December 13, 1870, in Erie, Penn., and had lived in and near Hillsboro for the last four years. Surviving is the widow, Elizabeth. Dauberman had been ill four years following the bite of a Black Widow spider while a resident of Klamath Falls.

Indoor Humidity

(By State Board of Health)

The lack of proper indoor humidity during the winter months causes much discomfort, and is responsible for many cases of colds and more serious ailments.

The so-called "comfort zone" indoors, has a maximum temperature of 70 degrees F., a minimum humidity of 30 per cent, a minimum temperature of from 50 degrees F. to 60 degrees F. and a maximum humidity of 55 per cent. This is the range which most people in temperate climates will find agreeable.

The temperature and humidity of the air affect health mainly by influencing the heat regulating mechanism of the body. More heat is produced in the body than is required, hence heat must be lost, else heat stagnation or heat stroke will result.

Excessive moisture makes hot air feel hotter and cold air colder—the first by hindering evaporation and the second by favoring conduction. If the air is at or higher than body temperature, perspiration is secreted by the skin and its evaporation lowers the body temperature. When high air temperature and high humidity occur together the heat will be oppressive.

Considerable air movement aids evaporation and results in cooling of the body. Low air temperature combined with high humidity is likely to cause discomfort because the accumulation of moisture in the clothing lessens its efficiency as a non-conductor of heat. Moistening of air, however, in connection with heating, is advantageous, as it prevents too rapid evaporation from the skin and thereby allows somewhat lower temperatures with comfort.

Drafts or currents of cold air on the face or sudden temperature changes cause contraction of the blood vessels with resulting local anemia. This loss of blood supply allows an increase of bacteria and may result in the development of colds or other respiratory infections. Continual exposure to overheated air increases the liability to the abnormal conditions mentioned above. High temperatures combined with high humidity may result in chronic respiratory disease. Thus, limiting the temperature will simplify the problem of maintaining the proper moisture content in the air because experiments have shown that excessive heat requires excessive humidifying.

Evaporation of at least two quarts of water daily in each commonly used room of the household is easily accomplished and is necessary in maintaining the proper humidity in heated buildings. Open water containers ranging from pans to specially constructed humidifiers when placed near heating fixtures and kept well supplied with fresh water will furnish the needed moisture during the indoor season.

Protected window ventilation will usually supply sufficient moisture. Overheating of rooms should be avoided. Health and comfort can be safeguarded by good ventilation.

Green Split Pea Soup

1 pint green split peas
3 pints water
1 small onion
2 tablespoons butter
2 slices bacon
salt and pepper to taste
2 cups milk
whipping cream.

Cut bacon in small pieces and cook onion, which has been sliced thin, with bacon until slightly browned and bacon fat is well rendered. Pour off excess fat. Add peas and water and cook for 1 1/2 hours or until peas are soft. Add the butter. If may be necessary to add additional water. Strain mixture through coarse sieve and add milk. Heat again and serve with whipped cream on top. Serves six.

Cream of Carrot Soup

2 1/2 cups sliced carrots
(5 or 6 carrots)
1/2-cup chopped celery, leaves and stalks
2 thin slices onion
2 tablespoons butter
2 1/2 cups water
1 teaspoon salt
4 cups milk.

Simmer carrots, celery and onion in the water for about 30 minutes. Add salt and drain, saving liquid. If there is more than 1/2-cup liquid, boil until evaporated to this quantity. Put carrots through ricer or coarse sieve; there should be 1 1/4 cups puree. Add puree and liquid to heated milk. Add butter and re-heat thoroughly. Yield: Five servings.

Not Worth It

A boy entered a grocery store and asked for a dime's worth of asafetida.

As the storekeeper tied up the package the boy said, "Dad wants you to charge it."

"All right, what's your name?" "Shermerhorn."

"Take it for nothing," the storekeeper said. "I ain't goin' to spell 'asafetida' and 'Shermerhorn' for no dime."—Ex.

Hot Soups for Cold Days

After the irregularity of holiday meals and bed time, the entire family is ready for a period of simple living. In fact, an early bed time and simple meals are essential if one is to avert irritability, quarrels, and even genuine illness resulting from over-strained nerves and over-taxed digestive systems. And yet, it isn't easy to think of simple yet wholesome dishes to serve after having concentrated upon festive fare for holiday meals.

In planning our meals let us build our meals around the protective foods—milk, fruits and vegetables, and eggs. These foods, simple but healthful, we know to be essential to the health of the individual. Particularly, we must watch to see that these foods form a basis of the child's diet. Milk is as essential to the growing child as rich soil, moisture and sunlight are to a growing plant. How much milk? A quart a day if it is at all possible to provide it. But all of this must not have to be used as a beverage. For it serves the nutritional needs equally well when used in the preparation of other foods. Creamed vegetables, baked or escalloped dishes, puddings made with milk, ice cream and cottage cheese all offer a means of utilizing milk. Creamed soups also offer a nourishing dish always acceptable as the main part of the school child's lunch.
