Further Substantial Increase Reported in Farm Prices

Further substantial advance in the general farm price level has been registered during the past six or seven weeks, according to the Oregon farm price index published in the most recent monthly report of agricultural situation by the U. S. C. extension service. At mid-January, this index stood at 87 per cent of the 1926-1930 level, or three per cent higher than a month before. Market prices indicate some additional advance since mid-January.

Compared with a year ago, farm prices in Oregon are up an average of about 20 per cent, approximately the same rate of advance as shown for the United States.

Farm costs are also higher, but the increase in costs averages only around 5 per cent, according to government data. Consequently the exchange value of farm products is approximately 13 per cent higher than a year ago. The sharp advance in prices for farm products is attributed largely to drought-

Schulmerich Talks Before Rotarians on "Sound Money"

"Sound Money" was discussed at the Rotary club luncheon Thursday by Edward Schulmerich, local banker. Money, he said, is the creation of law and any nation can issue money to the extent of its power of redemption.

The local banker explained why he was a "sound money" man and a bi-metalist. He strongly advocated a universal yardstick of measurement for the promotion of international trade. Schulmerich declared that the sharpest thing President Roosevelt ever did was to take the unit of measure out of the American dollar.

Value, he said, is determined by the needs, wants and desires of the human race. Ninety-three per cent of all business is done on a credit basis and without money. It is a mistake for any nation to take a precious metal as a basis of value as for instance gold in any time of emergency goes into hiding, he said. Fiat money will require everyone to take the product example, he said, and cited many examples to prove his theory.

Schulmerich took issue with the Oregonian's contention that the country now has a 39-cent dollar, saying that there was no such thing.

O. B. Gates was chairman. Local Rotarians have been invited to an inter-city Rotary meeting with Portland club March 16.

Planning Board Reports Program

When actual distribution of funds to carry out President Roosevelt's $3,000,000,000 public works program gets under way, Oregon is expected to receive several million dollars for development of its water resources, and the section of the state in which Hillsboro is located contains a number of proposed projects, reports now on file at the Oregon state planning board office show.

Oregon, for purposes of the national water resources study, has been divided roughly into seven regions, some of which also include parts of Washington, California, Idaho and Nevada. These are designated as Willamette-Columbia west of the Cascades, Middle Columbia, Oregon Pacific, North Pacific-Klamath, North Minor Great basin, Snake river, and Sacramento river. Hillsboro is located in the Willamette-Columbia basin.

Ask Channel
 In the Willamette-Columbia west of the Cascades basin the report recommends first of all that a 27-foot channel be dredged from Vancouver to Bonneville, at a cost of $2,300,000. The survey for this has already been completed. Second in priority is the extension of the lower turning basin in the Vancouver region, estimated to cost $22,000.

Another smaller project gets third place, a 10-foot channel in the Ekomin slough, to cost $16,000. Fourth place is allotted a 30-foot channel at St. Helens, to cost $50,000.

Includes Tualatin
 The huge and highly important project in the Willamette river basin, providing for bank protection and channels in the Willamette and its tributaries, which includes the Forest Hills Country club next Wednesday night.

The report includes 24 other projects, some of which are levee improvements near Portland, estimated to cost $1,059,900; construction of levees and drainage works in the Sauvies island area, $1,364,000; precipitation measurement, stream gauging and other projects for the lower Columbia basin, totalling more than $569,000, and a number of others.
