

Funeral Friday Mrs. Woodward

Mrs. Rachel D. Woodward, a resident of Oregon for 16 years, died at 283 N. W. Marshall street, Portland, Tuesday. She had been ill since December and the family had moved into the city from their home on Hillsboro route 4 to an apartment temporarily because of her illness.

Rachel Dove was born January 6, 1866, the daughter of Ed Dove, who crossed the plains in 1845 and settled at Independence. She was married to Ledford T. Woodward in Salem November 19, 1911, and lived in Portland before moving to their Oregon home.

Mrs. Woodward is survived by the widower, a daughter and two sons, Eugene L. and Kenneth D., and two sisters, Mrs. Theda Buford of Eddyville and Miss Mabel Dove of San Francisco.

Funeral services will be held at Miller & Tracy chapel, corner of S. W. Morrison and Twentieth Place, Portland, at 3 p. m. Friday. Interment will be at West Hills Memorial Park.

New Agency Pontiac Opens

Pontiac automobile sales, until recently under the management of the Anderson Motor company here, were taken over this week by Roy C. Cartwright of Baker.

Cartwright announced Monday that he intends to remodel the rooms on Third street, next the Mackenzie Motor company, to give more office space and show room. In addition to his sales, he also will conduct a repair and service department.

The Pontiac territory includes all of Washington county. Cartwright also announced that two cars of new Pontiacs will be unloaded Saturday. Fritz Scheidel, salesman for the Anderson company, will continue for Cartwright.

Mrs. Cartwright will remain in Baker until later before joining her husband here.

Rites at Blooming for Michael Sturm

Funeral services for Michael Sturm Sr., 82, resident of Hillsboro seven years, will be held this afternoon (Thursday) at 2 from St. Paul's church, Blooming. Burial will be in the Blooming cemetery under the direction of Donelson & Sewell.

Sturm was born March 2, 1855, in France and died Monday in his home in Hillsboro. He was a retired farmer.

Surviving are the widow, Elizabeth Sturm; two sons, Michael and Fred of Hillsboro; and two daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Wick, Hillsboro, and Mrs. Martha Brandaw of Los Angeles.

TOAST

A favorite story is that of a small boy, who one day at school was requested to define toast and gave this definition, "Toast is burnt bread scraped." What a pitiful mental picture of toast. Even more unfortunate when we appreciate that just a little care makes possible a luscious golden brown product, delicious merely spread generously with butter or combined with other foods in a variety of ways.

Toast was a great luxury in the days of open hearth fires, for only when the coals reached the proper glowing stage was the heat even steady and sufficiently free of smoke to permit the toasting of bread, one slice at a time, speared on a long-handled fork. Which brings to mind dentists, urging mothers of the present generation to provide hard bread daily for the healthful development of the teeth.

One of the favorite forms of toast in those days was crunchy rolls served in soup. Yes, in it, right in the tarsen or in the soup plate. These rolls were crisp to begin with, and they were allowed to dry through on the hearth before being used. And delicious they were, too.

One of the most delicious ways of making plain bread toast originated in the '60's when stoves became common and when toast was made in the oven. The sliced bread was first buttered, and then toasted or dried out in the oven. At that time plain dairy cheese was a staple food, and one of the favorite ways to serve it was melted on toast. This is how it was done: The bread was first toasted, then placed in deep fire-proof dishes. It was covered with thin slices of highly flavored cheese, sprinkled with a dash of mustard and a little paprika, and a little rich milk was poured over the cheese and toast. It was then placed in the oven until the cheese melted.

Today we combine toast with many kinds of creamed dishes or cheese sauces. Dried beef, browned in butter and added to a white sauce is delicious served over toast. Other favorites are flaked tuna fish in cream sauce on toast, scrambled eggs on toast, creamed oysters or chicken or hard-cooked eggs on toast.

And then, by way of variety, there's always French toast. Have you ever tried dusting your French toast lightly with powdered sugar just before serving? It arrives at the table with a sophisticated air as though it just arrived from the hands of a French chef. Try it sometime.

Toast is an old-time favorite which has never lost its popularity. But toast, regardless of how it has been prepared or how it is to be used, must be served piping hot if it is to be at its best.
