WASHINGTON LETTER BY SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

WASHINGTON.—Witnesses appearing before the Senate Judiciary Committee in hearings on the President's court plan have made it clear that most opinion is based on whether people like the plan or don't like it, are afraid of it or not. The opposition has made the point that such a reform might be a step in the direction of non-parliamentary Fascist government, or the English system of parliamentary government.

Those who favor Roosevelt's proposal admit that if it is adopted, we might be nearer a parliamentary form of government, but they deny that such a change would bring this country any closer to dictatorship.

According to some of the New Deal strategists, we may see the adoption of the Roosevelt court plan and subsequently a decline in the power and prestige of the court as an institution. Ten or 15-year terms for Supreme Court justices, instead of life terms, are mentioned as a possibility. A constitutional amendment would probably follow, such as the one proposed by Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, permitting Congress to override Supreme Court decisions vetoing legislation. And finally the court might be deprived of its power to declare acts of Congress unconstitutional.

If that point were reached, Congress would be theoretically supreme in the field of government, with the single exception of the veto power of the executive branch. No English court can declare an act of Parliament invalid, so we would have a form of government...

Elser, and the Misses Elizabeth Ann Stein, Claudia Stein, Elizabeth Baggenstos, Romar Stein, Joe Baggenstos Jr., Mrs. H. L. Elser and Raymond Heard won first and floating prizes, and Elizabeth Baggenstos and Alvin Maly, low.

Bulletin Presents Oil Heat Advice

To prospective buyers of oil burners for home heating, forced to choose from the 200 or more makes on the market, the Bureau of Agricultural Engineering gives this general advice in a new circular, "Oil Burners for Home Heating."

"Even a first-grade burner improperly installed, or for which service is not readily available, will be unsatisfactory. All burners require some servicing. A burner installed by inexperienced workmen, even with the aid of explicit printed instructions, is likely to prove unsatisfactory."

"It is well to keep in mind experiences of other purchasers and seek not the best burner but rather one that is handled by a reliable organization which employs capable service men. Such an organization will handle at least a reasonable good burner."

In this connection the bureau notes that "has not yet been able to find any definite relation between price and quality" in buying oil burners.

The publication Circular 406, for sale by the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., at 5 cents a copy, seeks to answer the thousands of requests for information on oil burners which the department receives. It is illustrated, and discusses methods of ignition, the adaptation of present heating plants to oil burners, automatic devices, and adjustment and care of burners.

in the midst, comes the chap just enough overboard to be talkative. He wanted to hold the stage and so he was at length led out to save the meeting. Another comes to the front at the close of the service. Li- quor on his breath and "I'm slipping. If I can't stop I'll lose my job; can't you help me to quit?"

Then there is the man of 50 who gave his heart to the Lord years ago. He made good money in the logging camps and lost it. So he began to slip toward the Skidway. Night after night this past winter he had been in the meeting with us, penitence and utterly discouraged. Then came the hour when he rose in his place at the call to those who would be included in the prayer. Note this, he did not raise his hand, which of itself takes a lot of courage with many. He stood, yes, came clear to his feet. He told us afterward that his conscience hurt him until he felt he must rush out of the meeting, hearing the other saved ones tell what the Lord was to them—"And what a weight rolled away, when I stood to confess my need!" His words.

We meet a lot of this sort of thing on the Skidway. We expect it right along. Their sin brings them along down to us. They are saved men, who have been for long out in the wilderness. As with this man, we go to the Book. Out of the Scriptures our friend came to see for himself that he had been all along under the pleading of the Holy Spirit and his conscience hurt because he was resisting—"I do believe that when God once comes in, he never leaves a man," he finally volunteered.

Hospital Cows Made to Pay

Farming operations at the county hospital are rapidly being placed on a paying basis this spring, according to Herman Kerkman, commissioner.

At present the farm is supporting four cows, which furnish milk and butter for the hospital table and make a surplus of 40 pounds of butter each week which is being placed in cold storage against the time when the herd production falls below the needs of the tenants there.

From the skim milk, a number of hogs are being fattened for hams, bacon, and fresh pork, while 100 chickens supply the kitchen with eggs.

They feel they must make the grade on human ability and that if they slip, then heaven drops them. There is joy in their hearts when they confide their sin and face back home.—George N.
