Edward Schulmerich
In the death of Edward Schulmerich, Hillsboro and Washington county have lost one of its most important figures in business and political life.

Among his greatest services as a lawmaker was his fight to secure the consolidation of the schools of higher education in the state under one board.

Just Around the Corner
One of the biggest events of the year for this community, the annual Fourth of July celebration, will be here before we realize it.

Legion Junior Ball
American Legion junior baseball has been one of the prime interests of the local legion post for a number of years.

A Good Name
School officials are seeking a name for the junior high school due to people confusing it with the high school.

A Pioneer Dies
With the death of Mrs. Melinda Cave, another link in the pioneer chain has been severed.

Miss Lena Jesse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claus Jesse, dies June 11.

William Connell tore down the courtyard fence the last of the week and the grounds look much better.

Attorney O. F. Sheldon opens office in Wehrung brick.

The Pioneers
Pioneers of Washington county have been dropping off one by one until now there are only a few left of that sturdy band who came to the west and hewed out homes in the wilderness.

Good Training
Military training is a real benefit to any young man and a splendid opportunity along this line is offered through enlistment in the newly enlarged national guard company here.

From the fun the Rotarians and chamber of commerce members are having out of their softball game last week it would look like a great game is brewing and that the night games and lighted field have taken hold in a big way.

Flag day was observed in Hillsboro Monday with the display of flags in front of business houses.

Oregon's Traffic Deaths
In the year 1922 there were killed in automobile accidents in the United States 14,983 people.

Lay Cornerstone Today
(SALEM)—Interest of state officials and employees this week centers in the laying of the cornerstone of the new capitol building scheduled for today (Thursday).

Friendship Asserted—
Enmity, which Grange leaders have shown toward Governor Martin ever since his induction into office, was reflected in the action of the State Grange meeting at The Dalles last week when the farmers voted down a resolution inviting the governor to address the session.

Must Secure Money—
Next move in the program for a new tuberculosis hospital to be located in Multnomah county is up to the sponsors of the institution, according to the board of control.

Reports Conflicting—
Conflicting reports continue to come from the national capitol building as to the status of the federal grant for the library and office building construction of which was authorized by the last legislature.

Tax Plans Considered—
Meeting here this week for the purpose of organizing the interim committee on state and county revenues elected Charles V. Galloway as chairman.

To Eliminate Drunkards—
State Liquor Control board is out to eliminate habitual drunkards from its list of customers. Courts throughout the state have been asked to supply the commission with the names of persons convicted of drunkenness so that action may be taken to cancel their permits.

The Oregon Steam Purification league of which State Treasurer Rufus Holman is chairman will initiate a measure to be placed before the voters of Oregon at the November, 1938, election.

Regarded by Governor Martin as "a big boost for Oregon grown flax," the Boston navy yard this week placed an order for 61,000 pounds of flax twine with the Salem Linen Mills.
