The following timely advice as given in an editorial by the Industrial News Review if followed will result in less sorrow in many American homes next Tuesday:

If you drive-see that your car is in good mechanical condition. Check tires, lights, brakes, steering mechanism, windshield wip-er, rear-view mirror, horn. Drive skilfully, at a reasonable speed. Observe the rules and courtesies of the road.

If you must use fireworks-give yourself plenty of space. Keep away from children and animals and buildings. Throw firecrackers away from people and inflammable materials, not at them. Never hold an exploding firecracker, nor set them off under a bottle or can. Cauterize the smallest wound immediately—tetanus poisoning works fast

In practically all night accidents on the highways, speed is a factor. How many times have you heard someone say "I can make better time at night." Give these figures a thought before you start out with the idea of "making better time" a night.

The hazards of driving increase rapidly as your range of vision decreases. The facts urge every driver to slow down when the sun goes down. Have two self-imposed speed limitsa slower one for nights and bad weather. Never drive at a speed too great to permit stopping within the stretch of highway clearly illuminated by your headlights.

Poor lights are a handicap to safe operation of your car that should not be tolerated. Very often safe night driving is handicapped by the simple failure of keeping the lenses of the headlights clean.

Do not overlook any one of the many details regarding your car that may promote its safe operation. Consider the hazards of night driving, take proper precautions to meet them, and help eliminate Oregon's traffic deaths.

Re-names Commissioners

(By A. L. Lindbeck)

SALEM-Although delayed for more than three weeks after the expiration of their terms the reappointment of Earl L. Fisher and Charles V. Galloway as members of the state tax com mission finally came through as expected.

The reappointment of the two commissi ers "with no strings attached" as explained by Governor Martin, is generally interpreted here as an official endorsement of their administration of the tax laws of the state and approval of the "hard-boiled" and "arbitrary" method employed by the commission in the assessmen of penalties and interest against delinquent taxpayers to which objection had been taker by certain individuals opposing their reap-

Contrary to the contention of some au thorities that failure to reappoint the two commissioners promptly upon the expiration of their old terms left a vacancy on the commission, other authorities point out that the two commissioners continued to serve without an interruption in their status. In support of this view it is pointed out that the state supreme court has on at least two occasions held that an appointive official continues to serve until his sucessor has been appointed and qualified

Hazards to be Reduced-

Traffic hazards will be reduced to a mini-mum on the highways of the future, according to R. H. The highways of the future, Baldock declared, will be wider and straighter than those being built today. Engineers attending the Chicago con ference urged stricter enforcement of traffic laws against speeding and reckless driving. Baldock said.

Reports from Washington this past week were more favorable for a federal grant for the new state library and office building without any hampering strings attached. Ralph Moody, assistant attorney general, who is in the national capital in the interest of the building grant, wrote Governor Martin that a rider attached to the WPA appropriation provides for the grant to Oregon as an extension of the original capitol grant. Later press reports from Washington indicate that the relief labor restrictions may be removed entirely from the WPA appropriation. In either event Oregon will receive $450,000 in federal money to add to the state appropriation of $550,000 for the proposed new buildings.
