

Final Tribute Paid Thursday to Historian

His clippings and his relics of by-gone days laid aside forever; his memories of pioneer days gone the way of the pioneers, Albert Tozier, editor and Oregon historian sleeps today in the peaceful Hillsboro cemetery.

Thursday, when the strains of the funeral music died away, the final word of the rites had been said, and the last friend had passed sorrowfully by his bier in the final parting, Albert Tozier, was carried from the flower banked church.

Preceding the services, L. E. Wilkes, old time friend who was selected last year to ring the bell on New Year's in the absence of Tozier, tolled the bell 64 times once for each year Tozier had welcomed a new year.

Friends Travel Far

From far and near they came, these old friends to talk of him in hushed voices, and recount the hours of yesterday. They filled the Methodist church to overflowing, and followed him in a long procession to his resting place in the family plot beside his parents.

Services were simple, with the Knights of Pythias in charge. Rev. Alexander Hawthorne, pastor of the First Methodist church of Hillsboro, read the scriptures, offered a short prayer, and made a few brief remarks. Rev. Henry Young gave a fitting tribute, and the service of the Knights of Pythias was read, followed with a tribute to the veteran Pythian by Walter G. Gleason, grand keeper of the records and seal of the grand lodge in Oregon. Tozier had been a Knight and member of the Odd Fellows lodge for more than 50 years.

Irvin Sings

Two songs, "The End of a Perfect Day," and "Crossing the Bar," were sung by Warren Erwin with Mrs. Oliver Wickersham at the organ.

Active pallbearers were Walter Meacham, Edward A. Brown, Fred Mills, Melvin Carter, Doc Patterson, W. Verne McKinney, while the honorary pall bearers included O. M. Plummer, Fred Lockley, H. G. Starkweather, Oscar Miller, Peter Binford, Henry Zorn, W. A. Williams and Captain A. W. Riggs.

Tozier died in his Portland home June 27 after an illness of eight months which kept him from his annual trip to Hillsboro on New Year's eve to ring the Methodist bell, a tradition of 65 years.

Crossed the Plains

He was born in Nebraska in 1869, and crossed the plains with his parents to settle in the Oregon country. Following his graduation from Tualatin academy at Forest Grove, he entered newspaper work and was one of the organizers of the National Editorial association. He had been invited to attend the national convention July 19 at Detroit, Mich., as the last living founder.

Later he became interested in historical lore, and from 1905 to 1925 he was one of the best collectors of pioneer relics and data in the state.

From Bridge the family came to Hillsboro, where Mr. Nosler engaged in the automobile business for a time before accepting a teaching position in the Hillsboro schools where he taught a year before becoming superintendent, which place he had held for the last nine years.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Nosler became associated with the Christian church 30 years ago in Coquille, and had taken an active interest since. He was superintendent of the Sunday school and elder of the church. Because of illness during the past year, he had relinquished his active work but retained his office.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. R. L. Putnam, assisted by Rev. M. A. Marcy of Sunnyside Methodist church, Portland, a family friend. Music included a solo by Mrs. V. W. Gardner, and the church choir which sang, in closing, "Abide With Me."

Private Car No. 1 Killer

Private passenger cars kill more than all other types of motor vehicles operated in Oregon, finds the Oregon State Motor association.

Last month 24 lives ended in private car accidents in the state, 12 in mishaps involving all other vehicles, from trucks to bicycles, ambulances and hearses.

Beware of Week-Ends

Saturday was the most dangerous day of the week to venture on Oregon's streets or highways, last month's figures garnered by the Oregon State Motor association show.

Saturday scene 628 traffic accidents, Sunday 558. Thursday, with 282 mishaps, was the safest day of the week.
