The McCormick-Deering "West Coast Special"

Extra long, heavy, and tough straw is handled easily by the McCormick-Deering No. 31-RW "West Coast Special" Harvester-Thresher, built especially for flax, grain, and seed crops grown in the irrigated country of California and the far west. Special features of this 12-foot combine are the 44-inch platform canvas; the efficient rub-bar cylinder with its special combination concave and grate construction; large cleaning and separating area; and sturdy construction to withstand twisting strains when working over irrigation borders. The same rugged construction is found in the No. 31-R Harvester-Thresher. It also has the rub-bar cylinder
