

Sherwood Bank Host County Bankers' Meet

Clyde Williamson, president of the Bank of Albany and recently elected president of the state bankers' association, was speaker Wednesday night at the meeting of Washington county bankers held in Benson hotel, Portland. Sherwood bank was host, Morris Adair, Sherwood, president of the county association, presided.

Another speaker was Hans Pfund, recently appointed secretary of the state association. Williamson outlined the work and setup of the state group while Pfund told of accomplishments of the past year and plans for the future.

Third speaker was George Greenwood of the Bank of California, member of the association committee on bank practices, who spoke on that subject.

Meeting in Forest Grove last night Wednesday bankers of the county discussed uniform service charges for banks in the county and state. The meeting was at the invitation of John Thornburgh.

Earle Bowman of the Commercial National Bank of Hillsboro, has been elected secretary of the county association to fill the unexpired term of James Say, while J. L. Searcy of the same bank has been named to the state committee on public education.

Coroner Reviews Death Aged Man

Coroner F. J. Sewell Friday was called to Tualatin to investigate the death of Richard Henry Edwards, 60, retired British cavalry officer. Edwards was found dead in his bed by his step-daughter, Thelma Bennett.

She reported to Sewell that the last time she saw him alive was Thursday afternoon before she left for Portland. Returning late in the evening, he did not again visit his room until he failed to arise the next morning.

He was born in Wales and came to America 35 years ago, settling near Tualatin 24 years ago. The body was taken to Portland.

Breakfast Group Honors Publishers

Recognition of the honorees recently won in national competition by the Hillsboro Argus was accorded Mrs. E. C. McKinney and W. Verne McKinney, publishers, by the Hillsboro Men's Breakfast club Thursday morning. Attention was also called to the list of awards received by the local paper in past years and to the Argus' community service. The McKinneys gave brief talks expressing the thought that the awards were shared by the community as a whole and pledged themselves to continue serving the Hillsboro territory with the best possible newspaper.

Moving pictures of the coronation of King George, and comments on the English situation were presented at the close of the meeting by Hugh A. Maiter of Los Angeles, Cal. Maiter is a member of the Royal Anthropology institute and is planning ethnological investigations on the Oregon coast in the near future.

New Traffic Code Ordered for City

Hillsboro is to have a new traffic code as soon as the necessary ordinance can be drawn, the city council voted Tuesday night. The city attorney was instructed to draw the ordinance to conform with recommendations made by the traffic committee as reported at the meeting July 13. Mrs. C. E. Wells is chairman of the committee.

The recommendations include an hour parking limit in the business section; establishment of more stop streets; re-routing of the buses outside the business zone; elimination of U-turns on Main street intersections and other changes.

State traffic regulations also will be written into the code to make the ordinance conform to state law.

Mr. Ham was born March 29, 1850, in Marengo, Ill., and was married June 14, 1870, to Marion Douglas in Spring Valley, Minn. She died in 1931.

Surviving are four children: Robert H. Ham, Bowdler, S. D.; Herbert B. Ham, Keystone, S. D.; Mrs. J. A. McLeod, Mills Valley, Cal., and Oscar E. Ham, Forest Grove. Eighteen grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren also survive, as does a brother, Sanford H. Ham, of Corvallis.

Please send in news copy early to the Argus.

Ill for more than four months, Mrs. John Petersen, 67, of Chehalis Mountain, died in her home July 22. Funeral services were held July 26 at Mt. Olive church, Laurel, with Rev. Reginald Hicks officiating. Burial was in Mt. Olive cemetery under the direction of Donelson & Sewell.

Annette E. Wanamaker was born March 28, 1870, in Ontario, Canada, and came to the United States 57 years ago. In 1901, she was married in Muskegon, Mich., to John Petersen. The couple came to Oregon 17 years ago this month, and have made their home near Laurel since 1920.

Besides the widower, she is survived by a son, Murray L. Petersen of South Bend, Wash.

He was a single man and is survived by three brothers, Elmer, Bellingham; Ralph, Francis and Charles, Raymond, Wash.; two sisters, Mrs. Ann Chapman, Toppenish, Wash., and Mrs. Daisy Soule, Portland. Burial was in Fir Lawn cemetery here.

Mr. Campbell was a native of Missouri.

COOKING OUT-OF-DOORS

With trailers and out-door fireplaces becoming more and more popular, many families eat most of their meals out-of-doors as long as the weather permits. If you haven't tried out this very desirable plan, try it just once and you'll want to do it every day. In the early morning it is a bit too cool and anyway breakfast is perhaps more conveniently served indoors. But luncheon or dinner is delightful served on the lawn, in the woods, or "buffet style" before an outdoor fireplace.

When an open fire is possible it is great fun to have each person cook his own meat over the coals. Thinly sliced cottage ham securely fastened to the prongs of a long stick will sizzle and spit delightfully as it cooks. It is delicious, when combined with a thin slice of Swiss or American cheese and served between the buttered halves of a sandwich bun. And, of course, wieners are always fun to roast over an open fire.

Every one from the child to the adult enjoys popping corn over an open fire. Melt a generous amount of butter in a pan near the fire while the corn is being popped. Once a large pan is filled with fluffy white corn, stir as you add the melted butter and salt.

They say that a can opener is the key to a variety in camp fare. With the aid of a can opener and a heavy kettle suited to an open camp fire one can prepare a delectable meal in one pot.

Spaghetti, Camp Style

1/2-pound spaghetti
1 can chicken soup
1/2-cup grated cheese

Fill a large container with well salted water. When it's boiling hard, add spaghetti. Curl it around as it softens so as not to break it. Boil until tender, about 20 minutes. Drain in a colander. Heat soup in a saucepan. Place spaghetti in serving dish and pour hot soup over it. Mix well by lifting spaghetti with two forks. Top with grated cheese.

Kabobs and Cheese Bobs are all broiled over the open fire and are old favorites among campers.

Kabobs

Small pieces of steak
Slices of raw onion
Slices of apple
Slices of bacon
Thread pieces of steak, onion, apple and bacon on a pointed stick.

Motorist Safety Stickers Available

Take the Oregon motorists' safety pledge!

This call was sent throughout the state this week by leaders of the 1937 "Let's Quit Killing" safety program, who have made available to all motorists an attractive red, white and blue sticker, on the back of which is a pledge to drive safely.

Endorsed by Earl Snell, secretary of state, and Mayor Joseph K. Carson Jr. of Portland, the stickers are available at the office of this newspaper, the chamber of commerce, or at establishments displaying the A. A. sign here.

The pledge sticker, issued from the offices of the Oregon State Motor association, is based on experience which has shown that the man pledging himself to safe driving is the one who most generally observes all the rules of safety and proves an asset rather than a hazard on Oregon's streets and highways.

Every motorist interested in helping reduce the traffic toll should ally himself with the existing safety program by signing the pledge and attaching it to his car, the automobile club urged.

The pledge is as follows: "With the knowledge that it is my clearest duty to conserve life and prevent suffering and injury with every means in my power, I hereby agree: "That I will drive carefully at all times, keeping hands on wheel, eyes on road, mind on driving. "That I will learn, respect and obey the rules of safety."

Green Mountain (By I. R. Strubb)

Mrs. C. J. Yazzolino and two children of Portland are spending the week at the V. C. Strubb home. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Genzer and daughter Donna left Tuesday for a few days at the Tillamook beach resorts.

Miss Ruth Bailey, who is attending normal school at Medford, spent the week-end at home.

Frank Bailey and family attended a picnic on the Nehalem river Sunday. The picnic was the annual reunion of the Hunger family.

Undergoes Operation—

Mrs. Edgar Kamna underwent a major operation Tuesday morning at the Good Samaritan hospital. She is in a very serious condition, but is expected along as well as can be expected.

The amount of moisture in a mature pear orchard soil may be well above what is known as the wilting point, and still the trees may suffer for lack of water, it has been definitely determined at the Medford branch experiment station. A number of possible explanations for this are being investigated, but in the meantime it is found advisable to make sure that irrigation water is applied soon enough to avoid the danger line. Even under the best watering conditions, it has been found that excessively hot dry days cause a check in the growth of the fruit, especially when there is a heavy leaf growth through which moisture is given off faster than the roots can supply it.

Insect parasites of the woolly aphid have so largely eliminated this pest in the Hood River valley that it is now difficult to find colonies of them at all. Strangely enough, however, spiders sometimes intervene to protect a few colonies of the aphid, explains Leroy Childs, superintendent of the Hood River branch experiment station, from which the parasites were introduced. Spiders sometimes spin webs across the face of a partially healed pruning wound under which the aphid are protected from their insect enemies.
