

Experiences in Germany Told at Verboort

VERBOORT—Rev. M. Jonas took over the parish at Wilsonville for the week-end to allow Father Sall the privilege of visiting Verboort to relate his recent experiences in Germany. Sall gave interesting accounts of the social and religious conditions in Germany. One had to be very careful with his choice of words, lest he be thrown into prison in case he offended the government in any way, as there were spies everywhere. Sall also had the honor of paying the famous Theresa Neumann a visit.

tery will be split between other organizations of the 218th for training purposes because of the lack of field guns. The same situation holds in the Newberg battery recruited at the same time.

The first week in camp will be devoted to whipping some 15,000 men from Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, and Wyoming, into shape for the grim battle planned as the closing week of the camp.

Review Big Event
From the standpoint of the public, the big event of the encampment will be the review Saturday, August 21, commencing Monday, August 23, and continuing without interruption until August 28, the troops will be engaged in a gigantic war maneuver, simulating, as nearly as possible, actual field conditions in war time.

Two armies will be engaged in the battle, one defending, and the other attacking. The battle will continue day and night, with 15,000 men aided by 1000 pieces of heavy equipment, including cannon, trucks, tractors and tanks. Airplanes also are to be used, it is understood.

houses, automatic filter system, and heating system for the shower. Four persons would be required to operate such an enterprise and the cost of operation would be about $22.50 a day. With the filter system, water for the season would not exceed $22.50, he said.

Huedepohl explained that proper construction of such a pool would provide a white bottom, giving 70 per cent of the pool space for shallow bathing.

Pools operated at taxpayer expense are wrong, the expert explained, and no city should ever plan a pool, the operating expenses of which could not be paid by an admission charge.

Cost Estimated
Cost of the pool suggested for Hillsboro would be $17,500, he said, of which $10,000 would be material. If constructed by WPA, this amount would have to be raised before the work could start Under PWA, with a 45 per cent government grant, the necessary cash would be less.

The swimming season generally is understood to be from the time school is out in the spring until it takes up again in the fall, Huedepohl said. Then he declared the idea wrong, as many sunny, warm days are found earlier in the spring, while September generally has more days of sunshine than August.

He emphasized the necessity of sanitary measures, and declared that the city should not attempt a pool to be used as a community bath tub.

"If the pool is safe from infection, and safe for swimmers, you can expect to draw patrons from at least 10 miles all around you," Huedepohl remarked.

Sherwood Cannery Expanding Plant
Short pack on beans is reported this year from the Sherwood cannery, but expansion is expected next year. The plant is expected to be completed by the end of the month. Twenty-five persons are on the bean crew and more than 200 will be used during the prune harvest.

The prune crop is good in the Sherwood vicinity, but the beans will be a short pack because of delay in starting. Two new buildings have been erected, and new vegetable machinery has been installed.
