

Arrests Follow Car Wreck on Railway Track

First joy-riding automobile party to come to grief on the Oregon Electric tracks, was under arrest Saturday following a wreck near Garden Home about 2:30 a. m. Saturday.

The automobile, registered to Alfred Hansen, was nearly demolished when the machine left the rails, careened along a ditch for 100 feet before crashing a trolley pole. After striking the pole, the car ran another 30 feet, struck another pole, and piled up between the rails.

Occupants of the car, said by officers to have been Joe Cargel, 23, George Cargel, 19, John Dobra, 18, and another youth, 17, all of Oregon, were shaken, bruised and cut. The first three are under arrest on charges of driving a wheeled vehicle on railway right-of-way.

Several weeks ago special agents for the Oregon Electric made attempts to apprehend joy-riders using automobiles on the rails for night trips up and down the tracks from Hillsboro, and a warning was issued through a story published in the Argus.

This summer became a well known fact among younger automobile drivers, that a car placed squarely on the rails would slide the tracks at moderate speed. The automobile tires, it was found, formed a flange on the rails to guide the machine.

Friday night, according to the officers, the boys explained that they attended a charivari and then decided to travel the tracks, beginning at Hillsboro. All went well until they came to the curve near Garden Home. The machine had reached a speed of 50 miles an hour, or more, the officers said.

The wreck was discovered about 3 a. m. by the freight train crew returning toward Portland from the run to Forest Grove. This train went west about 11 p. m. between Beaverton and Orenco, extra freights drawing log trains are common, it is reported, and railway officials declare that the party was lucky to escape a more serious collision with one of these trains.

Damage to poles and trolley wires at the scene of the wreck was estimated at $25, in addition to the loss of the automobile, which is said to be under mortgage to a loan company.

Tuesday afternoon the three boys appeared before Judge R. Frank Peters and pleaded guilty to the charges, and received sentences of 10 days in jail and fines of $30 each.

In asking for a jail sentence, G. Russell Morgan, district attorney, declared that the boys were guilty of a very dangerous practice and should receive a severe lesson. He also issued warning that future attempts to joy-ride the rails would meet with much more drastic treatment.

Argus Window Has Rare Specimens

The Argus window this week is a composite of the vegetable, mineral and insect worlds. In the vegetable line are twin cucumbers, large and small, brought in by J. Merkel of near Matson station, which is a twin white pumpkin brought in by Mrs. Dan Sabo of near Orenco. This pumpkin seed was brought over from Germany. The vegetable is cooked by frying in long strips like noodles.

Dr. A. O. Pitman brought a huge colored grasshopper from South Dakota, which is displayed. It is much larger than any other in Oregon. A sort of tree spider, black and white mottled, was brought in by James Stewart. E. Keenon of Mountaineer found an oddity in the mineral line while working on the Wolf creek road. It is shaped like a cocoon, the outer shell crusted from exposure to terrific heat, and the inner part, like the meat of the cocoon, is a mass of clear white crystals.

Attend Army Maneuvers
Among Hillsboro people attending the review of army maneuvers at Fort Lewis Saturday were Mrs. C. E. Wells, Mr. and Mrs. W. Verne McKinley and son Walter, Mrs. Emma McKinley, Mr. and Mrs. Leon S. Davis and daughter Betty, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Rogers, and W. G. Hare. The McKinleys were guests over Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. K. E. McDonald of Tacoma, and the Davis family also remained in Tacoma over Sunday.

Maurice Dean Visits
Maurice Dean of Grand Rapids, Mich., is spending two weeks with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Dean. Maurice is vocal instructor at the Davis Tech high school in Grand Rapids, and has been studying in Chicago, Ill., during the summer.

Attend Cousin's Funeral
Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Richardson, who were in Seattle, Wash., during the week-end remained until Tuesday to attend the funeral of a cousin, Mrs. Elbridge H. Stuart, who passed away suddenly Saturday.

Son Arrives
A son, James Walter, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Kummer of Bend, August 11, according to word received by the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Kummer.

Mrs. Hanna Honored
Mrs. Pat Davis of North Plains and Mrs. A. J. Hanna of Hillsboro gave a party for Mrs. Arthur Hanna Jr. Thursday at the A. J. Hanna home. About forty guests attended.

Mrs. L. T. McPheeters and her mother, Mrs. Martha Stockton, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Paine and family leave today for Los Angeles, where Mrs. McPheeters and her mother will visit two weeks before going on to Hydro, Okla., Mrs. Stockton's home. Mr. Paine and family will return home in a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Nelson of Portland were guests during the week-end of Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Mitchell.

Misses Verna Mae Walters of Cedar Mill, Helen and Flora Wick are vacationing at Rockaway this week.

Mrs. May Hughes of Salem is spending her vacation here with her son Adrian Hughes.

Expert Urges Poultrymen to Cull Flock Now

Poultrymen are too frequently afraid to trust their own judgment in culling, which is its fundamental form is relatively simple, stated H. E. Cosby, head of the poultry department, Oregon State college, to a group of 70 poultrymen who were present at a culling demonstration held on the farm of Henry Erickson, Progress, August 18, reports L. E. Francis, assistant county agent.

"It doesn't take a great deal of culling skill for a poultryman to go through his flock of yearling pullets and cull out a majority of the non-producers," remarked Cosby, "because with their withered combs, small bodies, highly colored bills, feet and legs, and the pinched-up bones, and narrow space between the pinbones and keel, they are always very conspicuous in a flock of yearling hens. A poultryman finding birds with these characteristics shouldn't hesitate to cull them from his flock. They are the 'star boarders' and the birds that no poultryman can afford to keep."

Can Learn Easily
Cosby further pointed out that with a little experience a poultryman can learn the additional points of culling which are, namely, the time of moult, general physical condition of the bird and characteristics in connection with its head, eyes and back, which mark it as either a good or poor producer.

The poultryman should not be afraid of making a mistake and culling out a few good birds because, in this respect, he would be far less than when he is paying good money to feed the hen that is a dead loss. Crosby points out birds over two years old shouldn't be kept generally for a commercial flock, consequently, the major part of a commercial poultryman's culling will be with his yearling hens.

The first half of August is generally the best time for culling poultry because at this season of the year it is possible to tell most easily the birds that are still hard at work and those that have dropped off for an early moult or have stopped laying because of inability to withstand a year's production.

Rites Held Here for Pearl Sparks
Mrs. Pearl Eva Sparks, 28, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hammer of Hillsboro, died Monday in a Portland hospital after several months' illness. She was born December 28, 1908, in Ferrisdale, Ill.

Besides her parents, she is survived by two small daughters, Betty and Virginia of Hillsboro, and three brothers, Dean Hammer of Hollywood, Cal.; Glen Hammer of Stockton, Cal.; and Arthur Hammer of Hillsboro, Ore.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon from the Young Funeral Home with burial in the Hillsboro cemetery.

Local Happenings
Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Burkhalter and George Burkhalter returned Monday evening from several days' trip to Breitenbush Springs, Bend, Crater Lake, and home through the Wapinitia and Mt. Hood. They were unable to see much of Crater Lake as they encountered a snow storm on their arrival there, but they visited Cloud Cap Inn at Mt. Hood, where the weather was clearer. They also visited Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schmelzler at Terrebonne.

Mrs. Loren Schulmerich and Mrs. Wes Schulmerich left Wednesday for a ten-day trip to San Francisco, Cal. They are planning to drive to Los Angeles and Hollywood also.

Mrs. Garfield Garthofner and daughter Mary Ann left Saturday night for Los Angeles, Cal., for a two weeks' visit with Mrs. Garthofner's son, Maurice Perkins, and family. They will return in time to attend the state fair at Salem.

Mrs. J. R. Morgan of Portland and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Middleton of Spokane were guests Tuesday of Mrs. Harry Morgan.

Schools Show Steady Growth

Increase in school enrollment, census and improvements among the districts, is shown in the 1937 report just completed in the office of O. B. Kraus, superintendent.

Census shows 9779 children in the county as compared to 9397 a year ago, with enrollment 9732 in elementary and high schools at Beaverton and Veneta. A year ago this item totaled 9426. Union high school enrollment this year was 1769 as compared to 1619 a year ago.

Twelve parochial schools in the county employed 13 men teachers and 40 women, with 570 boys and 650 girls enrolled.

Financial condition of all districts is disclosed as good, with a total of $709,411.98 collected from all sources and $636,847.82 disbursed.

Improvements were made chiefly in high schools, $277,94 being spent for new sites; $24,721.39 for new buildings, and $14,573.84 for furniture and equipment. New building and equipment at Sherwood accounts for a large share of this. Elementary schools spent $11,639.34 for repair to buildings as compared to $2193.19 by high schools.

Transportation of pupils cost elementary schools $16,343.85, and high schools $33,640.59, making a total of $49,984.44, while $9095.15 in warrants were retired by all schools. High school districts retired $14,150.58 in other debt, and public schools $2,190.85.

Total expense of elementary schools was $333,496.38, and high schools, $303,414.44.
