"Star of Oregon," Miss Ruth Boyles of Forest Grove, played two numbers on her violin, accompanied at the piano by Miss Wagner. This presentation brought Pacific university into the pageant, the university being a pioneer institution, and both young women having been students of that institution recently. Center of interest, of course, in the pioneer colony, was the post-office where letters were received at intervals, after long travel, from relatives and friends in the east. David Hill was the first postmaster. Introducing the history of the Forest Grove fire department, and the family album, Mrs. Gardner sang, "Among My Souvenirs." The family album presented a number of character poses suggestive of family groups of years ago, and inluding the old maid aunts; the college twins; the spinsters; bride and bridegroom, the sister-in-law, and the dancer. The dancer, posed in the picture, came to life. Among the picture, came to life. Among the pictures was Judge R. Frank Peters. The pageant closed with a singing comedy act such as vaudeville shows of years ago presented. Committee chairmen and groups in charge of the various tableaux included Mrs. S. A. D.
