

Veterans Begin Sale October 15 on Streets Here

"Wear a forget-me-not" will be the plea of many volunteer workers on the streets Friday and Saturday, October 15 and 16, and in the business houses of this city when the annual forget-me-not flower sale of Washington county chapter, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, opens.

The campaign is being conducted by the local chapter to raise funds to take care of the emergency relief problems among the wartime disabled and to aid the work of rehabilitation including that of maintaining full time rehabilitation officers to serve as a special advocate or attorney in fact for disabled veterans.

"The veterans' organization is a congressionally chartered spokesman of by and for the disabled ex-soldier," said Bob Harrison, commander of Washington county chapter. "Our purpose is to render a distinctive service to the war-time disabled comrades through the local chapters and the national organization. We take care of the immediate needs of the incapacitated veteran and his dependents and we try to put him on his feet again more or render him and his family a service that may make of him a civic asset by securing for him the relief he is entitled to through governmental compensation."

Dusting of Crops Aids Weevil Fight

width have been used and found effective.

One Washington county grower dusted a narrow border around a rather large field this last season. This field has been in successive pea seed crops for several years. The past year or two the germination of his seed crop from this field has been down but the germination of the peas of the 1937 crop was high. This occurred with only one dusting. Even though the crop may meet germination requirements without dusting, every grower knows that there are always a lot of lightweight peas cleaned out in the screenings. If the dusting would decrease the loss, it would be a profitable practice.

Local field pea seed growers can get some comfort from these developments. This year with the late crop and harsh fall the weevil infestation was heavy and some growers found it difficult to get their seed up to the required standard of germination. Some are wondering how this affects their future plantings. The farmer who has the proper harvesting equipment either individually or in co-operation with a few other pea seed growers

L. P. Rockwood, entomologist at Forest Grove, points out that plantings of pea and vetch are much less likely to aphid infestation if planted not before October 15. For a number of years there has been little aphid trouble and growers generally disregard the possibility of loss from this source. Some day there may be a recurrence of real aphid infestation and from Rockwood's observations, the seriousness of this would be lessened by delaying planting until October 15.

Council Names Six to Budget Group

council asking that the $125 which represents the airport fund be entrusted to the club to carry on a building project at the airport.

Councilman Robb raised the objection that the city's lease on the property extended only to February, 1939, and that the club's project might be nullified should the lease not be renewed.

With the observation that aviation matters were becoming increasingly important to cities, and that Hillsboro would eventually have to settle the airport question, Mayor J. H. Garrett recommended that the issue be held over until another meeting.

Criticizes Suggestion
A suggestion of Robb's that the aviators make the airport attractive with the use of flowers and shrubbery drew criticism from Councilman Kroeger, who declared that "you can't attract aviators with daisies."

A tentative move in the direction of appraising and placing on the market all city-owned property was indicated following a request for an abstract company that it be allowed to regain title to two pieces of property.

In answer to this request, the city council designated a conference of the city attorney, recorder and appraisal committee sometime before justice court.

City Attorney Patterson called for a conference with the sanitary commission to work out a policy on non-connected sewers. Individual cases will be taken up at the next meeting.

City Manager George McGee was authorized to draw up specifications for improvements in the armory, necessitated by an increase in the national guard company of Hillsboro.

Consideration of the audit of the city books will not come up until A. L. Amacher, city auditor, has examined the report. A conference between the council and Amacher is scheduled for Friday, October 15.

Local Cannery on Pumpkin Pack

Packing of pumpkin was started at the B. E. Melling cannery here Monday. Broccoli and cauliflower have also been in process. The present packing season is expected to end about November 15, according to John Rector, plant superintendent.

An experimental pack of salmon amounting to 100,000 pounds, will be put through the Birds-Eye quick freezing process beginning about November 1. Some salmon was packed last fall, but not in a sufficient quantity for a fair trial.

Processing of crab is getting the local cannery off to an earlier start in the spring. Crab frozen this year amounted to 100,000 packages or 11,000 dozen crab. It is expected that this will be greatly increased next year.

County to Check Diphtheria Tests

Over 900 Washington county residents who took diphtheria vaccinations last spring from the health office will find out in the near future if they are immune to the disease.

Schick tests, devised as a means of determining immunity, will be given those who were vaccinated, it was announced Monday at the county health office. Patients may call Saturday mornings.

Tuberculin tests were administered to 212 Pacific university students last week.

Townsend Club Meets Next Monday Evening

Hillsboro Townsend club will meet Monday at 8 p.m. in the Methodist church. Several new members have been added to the club recently. The club came in a body to services at the Christian church Sunday night. Other local churches are to be visited from time to time. Features of interest to the membership and friends are to be presented Monday evening by the president, R. L. Putnam, and others. The public is invited.

State Police Carry Fight on Speeders

A campaign by state police to reduce excessive speeding by motorists passing through Aloha and Cornelius began last week when six drivers were cited to appear before justice court.

Although both towns have set up restrictions, there have been many violations recently. State police are maintaining a close watch on the highway through these two points to catch violators.

Teachers Analyze 3 New Textbooks

Over 150 grade school teachers of Washington county conferred Saturday afternoon at Hillsboro junior high school to hear explanations of new textbooks ordered for the current year.

W. J. Rice, Portland, discussed the penmanship book, while Miss Florence Beardley analyzed history and civics texts.

C. E. Gives Budget Post to Henderson

A pre-convention rally of Washington County Christian Endeavor, Friday evening at Gaston saw the appointment of James Henderson, Tigard, supervisor of the group's budget for the next year.

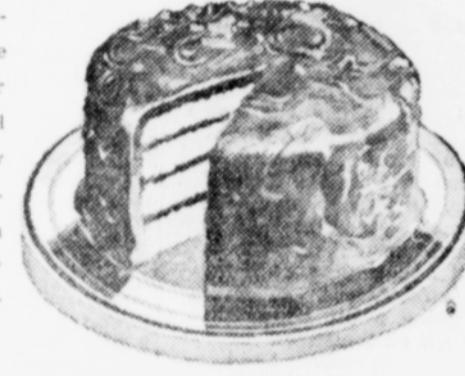

The session drew up plans for the county-wide convention at Bethany, October 23-24, and discussed the budget. Members of the Hillsboro Christian church delegation were in charge of devotional services.
