corn field and the only good they got was to make rubbing posts out of the stalks. Does beat Illinois.

Writes About Shanghai
Darwin Hewins Utter, grand master of the Masonic Order of Shanghai, China prominent business man of the Bund, and also well known in Portland, writes to his mother, Mrs. M. C. Utter, of Elmtonia under date of September 13. This is the second letter Mrs. Utter has received from her son since the beginning of the reign of terror and death in Shanghai last August. A few of the most interesting paragraphs of Mr. Utter's letter will show his impressions of the situation there up to September 13 which was before the American marines, war vessels and refugee ships had arrived on the scene.

"This is only the second letter since the Japs started fighting in and around Shanghai, that you may be thinking that one of those Imperial flying butchers from the land of the Sinking Sun dropped a bomb on me. This letter, however, will be proof that they have not got me yet and I intend to stay right here in Shanghai as it is the safest place I know of. Besides, there is little chance of me getting out if I wanted to.

"As I told you in my other letter I am staying with Mr. Koehler on Seymour road, which is in about the middle part of the Settlement. My furniture is still in the Bank of China building on North Szechuen road. Shells have dropped all around the area and there have also been many big fires. The building still stands though, so maybe it will weather the storm. I left the house Saturday August 30, and did not have a chance to go back to have a look until Monday, August 31. Everything was in good condition, even the refrigerator was working and there was cold food. The day was hot and the police who went with me were nervous, because shells were dropping on Range road about a block and a half away. So we ate some sandwiches and beat it.

"Most of the shops are open and the theatres and dance halls are opening. Buses and tram cars are running. There is plenty of food, water, light and gas, in fact, when the guns are not raising a racket the city is quite normal. The eastern district and across the river in Pootung, we believe, is pretty well shut up, as the Japs have shelled, burned and bombed these areas most every day for the past five weeks trying to chase the Chinese out.

"It is now starting the fifth week, and the Japs are just about where they started. Practically no gains have been made but plenty of men have been killed and wounded. Some 500 wounded Japs were brought into the Settlement near the Japanese consulate a few days ago. This is taken to mean that the hospital ships and gunboats at the mouth of the river are full of wounded. The best that the Japs can do is to bomb railway stations and trains that are full of refugees, dairy farms—killing all the cows—schools, colleges, American and British properties."

whistler has reached beyond the boundaries of Oregon.

Mrs. H. W. Stover and young son of Alexandria, Minn., arrived October 5 at the home of her brother, D. C. Nichol. The rest of the family will arrive later. Mrs. Stroeve was for several years primary teacher in the schools of Yakima and Seattle and critic teacher in the Dickinson, N. D., normal.

Young at 88
J. C. Gibbs of Washington street is talking some of going deer hunting again this season. He is a lively youngster of 88. He came from Missouri across the plains by mule-back and adopted Oregon in 1872. He says by profession he is a bachelor (for 65 years); by occupation, a pioneer, hunter and blacksmith. During the World War he was a government blacksmith making the rounds to Fort Stevens, Fort Canby and Fort Columbia every month. For the past 17 years he has lived in his present home alone surrounded by peace, plenty and kind friends. He estimates that he has killed a thousand deer in his life.

O. W. Hesterly sold his place at Hazledale last week and moved into the Haines house on the highway in Huber.

Markey Sayre returned Sunday to resume his sophomore year at Linfield college.

Rev. W. H. Redman is engaged in special evangelistic services in the Arleta Baptist church, Portland.

ALOHA-HUBER SCHOOL
Hans Stroeve, a newcomer from Alexandria, Minn., enrolled in the first grade Tuesday.

The third grade geography class is according proper recognition to Oregon's principal industry. They have built a complete miniature lumber camp—railroad, engine, cars of logs, donkey engine, saw mill with circular saws, stumps, flume, growing trees and everything.

The girls straightened up from a huddle. "Hi, there boys!" shouted the leader, "we girls can beat you to the slides." They didn't. The girls themselves saw to that. The boys slid one, stood around and looked miserable. The girls slid, looked pleasant and comfortable. The cold morning dew had been wiped off the metal slides by the boys. Six points for female diplomacy.

This is the sixth week of the school term. Report cards out next Monday.

A severe cold has kept Carl Rodolf of the first grade home for two weeks.

preme court in order that the will of the people may prevail.

This country, the speaker held, has risen from a small weak nation of 13 states to the strongest due to the fact that American people have been enjoying the best form of government known to man.

Other speakers were T. P. Goodin, member union high school board; R. R. Easter, chairman of the grade school board, and Hugh Rogers, commander of the Veterans' council. Goodin pointed out that the schools were training boys and girls to be good citizens. Easter held that it was a shame that such apathy was shown in elections and in attendance at patriotic programs. Commander Rogers said there never was a time when we needed so much to awaken the interest of our youth in our constitution and what it means to be an American citizen.

Invocation was given by Rev. H. A. Deck. C. T. Richardson led in group singing of "America" and "The Star Spangled Banner." A vocal number was given by the American Legion auxiliary sextet, Miss Mildred James was accompanist.
