The Art of Brewing Beer

No. 2. The BREWING process . . . boiling the "wort" and adding the hops
By PETER G. SCHMIDT, M. B.
"Beer, the Light Refreshment Beverage of Millions of Temperate People."

All-copper brew kettle. Daily capacity five brews of 5,000 gallons each.

BREWING PROCESS . . . The fluid (now called "wort") is boiled and a hop-strainer and then into the cooler special blend of premium quality Pa- where it is quickly cooled to preserve cific Coast and Bohemian hops is added flavor and purity. It then flows to the to impart the characteristic Olympia fermenting cellar where the yeast is hop flavor and aroma. After sufficient added.

Every process of Olympia brewing is improved by the exceptional brewing qualities and constant purity of our famous subterranean water — "It's the Water!"
