

Rare Books Exhibited At Library This Week

Several very old books and 156 brand new ones are on display this week at the Hillsboro library in observance of National Book Week.

One very old book and three rare manuscripts, including the original manuscripts of Dr. John Balch's "Bridge of the Gods" and "Genevieve—A Tale of Oregon," are on display during the afternoon periods. They have been prepared for exhibition by Miss Elsa May Cummins of the Hillsboro high school faculty.

New books in the displays include 54 juvenile books, 61 non-fiction works, and 42 volumes of recent fiction. The new books have attracted a great deal of attention from library patrons, according to Mrs. Georgia Smith, librarian. A large number of reservations have already been made for the books, which will go into circulation the first of the week.

Also included in the library's display is a collection from the biology classes of the high school entitled "Adventure Through Nature Study," with several new books on scientific subjects as well as exhibit cases of various insects, including a poster on the life cycle of the codling moth and a preserved specimen of the black widow spider.

Plants and flowers used to decorate the library were supplied and arranged by Dan Newsham of New sham Floral Co.

Miss VanDyke and F. M. McCoy Wed

At an impressive double ring ceremony solemnized Wednesday morning at Visitation church in Verboort, Miss Mary VanDyke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John VanDyke, became the bride of Franklin M. McCoy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo McCoy of Hillsboro. Rev. M. Jonas officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a princess gown of white satin with a long train. Her veil was of tulle, with corset and face veil, and she carried a white prayer book with streamers on which were tied small white chrysanthemums. Misses Judy and Dee VanDyke, sisters of the bride, attended her and wore similar frocks of slipper satin in wine and aqua green with small matching tulle veils. They carried bouquets of chrysanthemums.

Little Charlotte Ann VanDyke, the bride, was given in marriage by her father, who was a princess gown of white satin with a long train. Her veil was of tulle, with corset and face veil, and she carried a white prayer book with streamers on which were tied small white chrysanthemums. Misses Judy and Dee VanDyke, sisters of the bride, attended her and wore similar frocks of slipper satin in wine and aqua green with small matching tulle veils. Training for Jobs Discussed at Tea

"Training for jobs" was the subject of a talk by F. G. Leisure, director of vocational education in the Portland schools, at a tea given by the Hillsboro Parent-Teacher Association at the union high school Friday afternoon.

Leisure believes it is not fair to train youth for jobs that do not exist. A survey of need in industry and the schools is necessary, he explained. He told of results in some of the 25 crafts taught in vocational courses in Portland.

A musical number was sung by Mrs. Glen Payne, accompanied by Mrs. Fred Sewell.

The tea was in observance of American Education week, and the committee in charge consisted of Mesdames R. P. Rasmussen, J. M. Person, Nye Bristol, Jake Well and L. E. McDowell.

Pythian Orders Plan Homecoming

Phoenix Temple accepted an invitation to attend the Knights of Pythian homecoming meeting, according to vote of the members at the meeting Friday night. This will be a joint homecoming and will take the place of the Pythian Sister roll call meeting which is always held in November. Date of the meeting will be announced next week.
