

Aloha Grange to Join Leedy in Installation

(By C. E. Barker) ALOHA-Aloha Grange held its monthly pot-luck dinner meeting at the hall last Thursday evening. Several visitors enjoyed the dinner as guests of the grange, among whom were Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Francis, assistant county agricultural agent.

Mrs. Sabina Whitehead announced that Christmas seals will be sold in a house-to-house canvass Friday. It has been discovered that 97 children in Washington county are waiting for beds so that these patients may enter hospitals. She says that our school will do its part in this work of mercy.

One day the first grade dramatized a Pilgrim church service, and next day a Pilgrim school. They held a Thanksgiving sand table which shows the Mayflower, the Pilgrims and their log houses and Indians in their wigwams.

The November issue of the Miriam was received this week. The star deserves to be complimented for the news and timely editorials which appear in this publication every month.

Thursdays the student body attended the dress rehearsal for the Thanksgiving program that is sponsored by the staff members and reporters of the Miriam. "Who Wins" is a lively newspaper play. The main characters, Mary Orselli, Arlene Bernards and Germaine LaVoie, are supported by a cast of well chosen players.

The first junior symphony concert of the season has been long anticipated by St. Mary's girls. The musicale was thoroughly enjoyed and appreciated by a large group of students from the Academy.

It was suggested that some way be provided to permit farmers to double park in the city if necessary. Mr. H. Stevens said the ordinance had reduced the congestion greatly, but suggested that a possible further remedy would be the adoption of angle parking on the main street, which would eliminate double-parking difficulties.

Chamber programs for the next two weeks will have two foreign consuls stationed at Portland as speakers. Robert Klosterman, German consul, will speak next Monday, while S. C. Soo, Chinese representative, will address the chamber members December 6.

Traffic Rules Chamber Topic

Mrs. C. E. Wells, whom the mayor introduced as the city council member who led in the work for traffic regulation reform, told of the work in drawing up the new laws. "We worked with Mr. Patterson, the city attorney, in devising the new regulations which would benefit both those in and those out of the city."

Double parking explained. P. L. Patterson gave a short explanation of the new double-parking rules which anyone may park double for five minutes if a capable and licensed driver remains in the car.

This may penalize the driver who comes to town alone and wishes to make a quick purchase at one of the stores," he said. "But it does save a great deal of trouble in the case of those curb-parkers who formerly found themselves locked in for ten or fifteen minutes while someone else had conveniently double-parked beside them."

Double parking, claimed H. A. Kuratli, has provoked more comment among them with whom he is the much-tooted one-hour limit. Those who come to town and find the streets lined with curb parkers also find it difficult to observe the one-hour parking rule.

They come into the store," he explained, "buy the two or three things they have come for, and then dash out when they see an officer preparing to tag their car. In that way, no extras are purchased, since no time is allowed for looking over the store's stock."

Public Forum

(By Mrs. Lewis Raymond) Bynon Address Praised Allan A. Bynon, Portland Mayor and senator, visited the Argus offices in his home town, the inclemency of the weather was mainly responsible for my failure to attend the patriotic address at Hillsboro, but I want to take this opportunity to thank you, and our splendid weekly newspaper Argus as well for the rare privilege of reading the patriotic address of tribute to your good self, so appropriately befitting the spirit of the occasion.

Of particularly impressive interest to me was the gripping thread of national idealism, prompting your statement "if ideals are worth dying for, they are worth fighting for," whether it be to promote peace, avoid the sacrifice of national honor, or destruction of liberty. When it once becomes known that a nation will turn a deaf ear to the unceasing cries of the victims of tyranny, inhumanity and oppression, simply because liberty and relief can only come through the shedding of blood, that nation is foredoomed to disappear.

I read God's history right, civilization and Christianity have not come through the survival of the fittest but by the sacrifice of the best. No puny human intelligence dares to assert, that the blood of Lexington was not sacred, even as the blood of Calvary. Our ambition to excel in the arts of peace, must not blind us to the exigencies of proper defense.

The effect of your speech can not be conducive of other than the greatest good. Am I going to see it disseminated by repetition in the columns of the official Legion publication, in support of their meritorious three-point program, of laws sought to be enacted by congress at no distant date? Sincerely yours, W. A. Williams, Forest Grove.

Further extension of "Electricity on the Farm" is contemplated at a meeting to be held in Scoggins valley at 8 p. m. Friday at the Stinson mill mess hall. Co-operating with a local committee, M. New Egg Incubator Installed Here

County chicken production methods received a boost this week with the arrival of a mammoth new Robbins electric incubator to supplement equipment already in use at the Hughes & Son Hatchery in East Hillsboro. The new incubator, which weighs over three tons, was delivered direct to the Hughes hatchery by truck from the factory in Denver, Colo. It was all assembled and ready for immediate use upon installation. Addition of the new machine brings the total egg capacity of the Hughes plant to 147,000 eggs.
