

Hillsboro Argus

With Which is Combined the Hillsboro Independent Hillsboro Argus, First Hillsboro Independent, 1933 McKinney & McKinney, Publishers

Official Newspaper of Washington County Selected as Oregon's Best Weekly Newspaper, 1930-32

Subscription Rates Strictly Cash in Advance Per year $2.00 Three months $0.60

Member: Oregon State Editorial Association National Editorial Association

The Hillsboro Argus assumes no financial responsibility for errors which may appear in advertisements published in its columns

Ludlow Amendment

The Ludlow war referendum amendment to the constitution, which requires a favorable vote of the people before declaring war unless in case of invasion, has found a great deal of support throughout the nation.

Why should not the people who have to do the fighting and the paying have a say as to whether we should enter into some foreign war to protect American commercial interests abroad?

There is no doubt about what we should do in case of invasion or threatened invasion. But as for sending the flower of American young manhood thousands of miles away to fight on foreign soil and spending billions of dollars for such an aggressive war, it should be decided by a popular vote under our democratic form of government.

The difference between the situation at Detroit this year and last is that last year through the sit-down strikes no one was working in some of the automobile factories, while this year a great percentage are not working because there is no work.

Proceeds of the annual President Roosevelt birthday ball go for a worthy cause—the fight against the dreadful infantile paralysis.

Public Forum

Expresses Appreciation Editor, Hillsboro Argus, Dear Sir—Each mail is bringing additional ballots being clipped from the Hillsboro Argus by your readers in support of the campaign being sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States to keep America out of war.

Dear Argus—That is a fine report of our nut growers' convention. Thanks. What a fine array of news in today's Argus! The Argus deserves all the good things said about it—Yours, C. E. Barker, Aloha.

Our Yesterdays

Fifteen Years Ago Argus, January 11, 1923—Washington county in fifth place in state in point of months of service in the World War.

W. J. Hathorn re-elected president of Washington County Holstein Breeders' Association.

Thirty Years Ago Argus, January 9, 1908—County board makes annual tax levy. Figure $33,000 more than last year.

The president should have the cooperation of congress in his efforts for further governmental economy in an effort to balance the budget.

Church Services

All Saints Episcopal Church Services for the second Sunday after Epiphany, Sunday school at 9:45 a. m.

Free Methodist Church Sunday, January 14, Sunday school 10 a. m.; sermon by pastor, 11 a. m.

Beaverton Christian Church Bible school next Lord's at 9:45 a. m.

The Orenco-Reedville Parish Sunday school in both churches, 10 a. m.; worship service in the Orenco church, 11 a. m.

M. F. Church (Bethany) On Georgetown road. Sunday service every Sunday, 10 a. m.

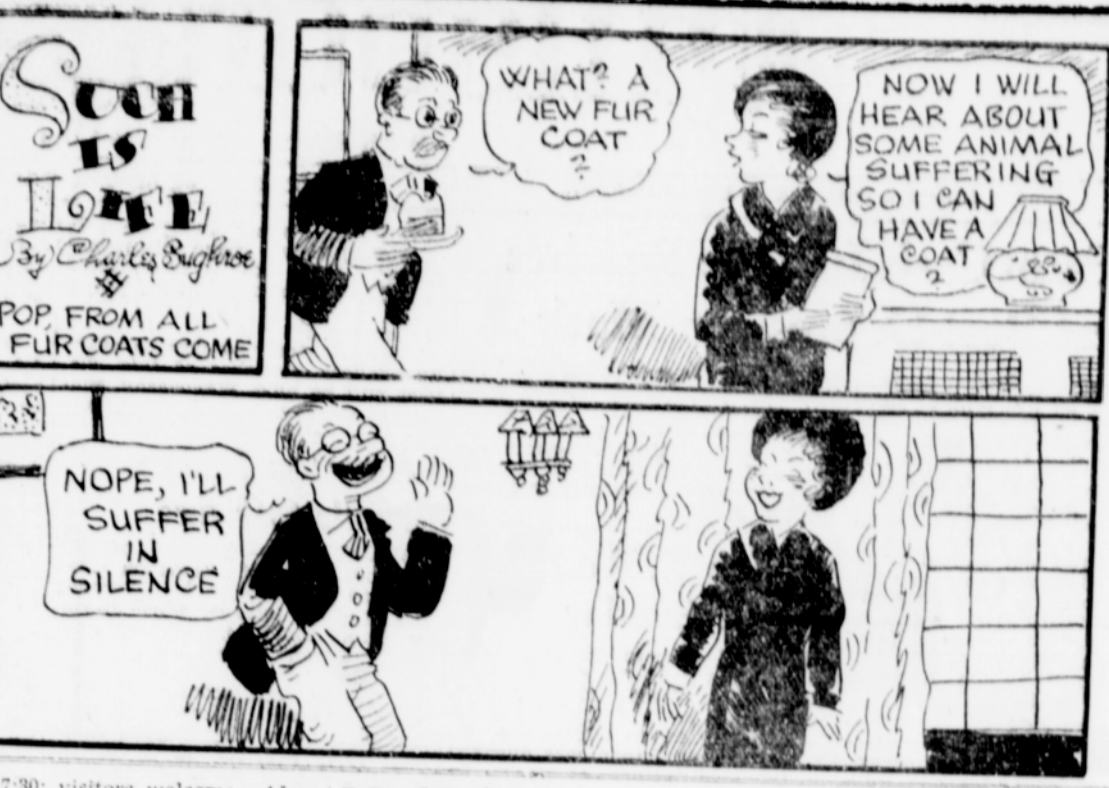

Congregational Church January 16—Church school 10 a. m.

Trinity Lutheran Church Public worship begins at 11 a. m.

Whosoever Will Tabernacle (Above North Plains) Friday, 8 p. m. open Bible school.

Methodist Episcopal Church Sunday, January 16, Sunday school, 9:45 a. m.

St. Thomas Church, Buxton Holy mass will be celebrated next Sunday at 10:30 a. m.

Highlights in the Week's News

Thursday, January 6 Strike vote cast by typographers of three Portland daily newspapers, which gave suspension.

Friday, January 7 Army engineers advocate Columbia river flood control; $14,000,000 suggested for all northwest projects.

Saturday, January 8 Japanese aim guns at French area in international settlement in Shanghai after Japs attack French concession policeman.

Sunday, January 9 Administration leaders concentrate on efforts to assure defeat of Ludlow proposal for a popular vote before U. S. can enter any foreign war.

Monday, January 10 Plane carrying ten persons crashes near Beaverton, Mont., and burns. Flames prevent attempt at rescue.

Tuesday, January 11 Five of nation's largest industrialists called to White House for parley on business conditions.

Wednesday, January 12 Federal Judge Fee criticizes battle between labor and business over union that disregards rights of public for "greed for power."

Thursday, January 13 Hedges Against Inflation and War Furthermore, the industry is fortified by two more hedges in addition to those already mentioned.

Politics Boiling

SALEM—Early indications point to a bumper crop of candidates for the harvest in the May primaries roll around.

While only five candidates have definitely declared their intentions to run so far a number of others have publicly announced their candidacy.

Those who have filed formal declarations of their candidacies to date include J. W. Morton of Hood River, who seeks the republican nomination for governor; Nicklas J. Zilstra of Polk county, who would like to be the democratic nominee for congress.

Interest in the gubernatorial race was revived this week by apparently authentic reports that Sam Brown, the Gervais farmer, would again seek the republican nomination for the office.

Day by day in every way it becomes more apparent that Governor Martin will seek another term. He is not to escape a contest in the primaries, however, if he does file.

Unemployment compensation payments will not start to flow out of the Salem office before the first week in February, according to D. A. Bulmore, administrator for the unemployment compensation commission.

Clear at One Office In order to prevent "chiseling" by beneficiaries of a fund all relief rolls as well as all unemployment compensation rolls will be cleared through the state employment service.

Debt Load Cut Oregon school districts have reduced their debt load by $4,438,313 in the past seven years, according to a report compiled by Rex Putnam, state superintendent of public instruction.

Advise Against "Bank" Attorneys for the bank night corporation this week withdrew their suit to restrain Marion county officials from interfering with this popular theatre attraction.

Monopoly?

Certain administration spokesmen are denouncing monopoly and big business as the cause for the present business recession.

Through NRA, the Guffey coal act and other such laws the administration has encouraged the very things which these spokesmen now berate.

A Good Judge The term of County Judge Donald T. Templeton ends this year and he has not decided as to whether he will be a candidate to succeed himself.

Approved Library Plans The board of control gave its approval to plans for the new state library building this week, opening the way for the call for bids on the structure, cost of which is estimated at approximately $739,000.

Jots in Jest United States might want to get back some of the scrap metal Japan has been buying, but not so directly as in the Panay incident.

Two Englishmen have been feeding for 71 years. That's a mark for businness and the new deal to aim at.

Americans marvel at the Russian game of putting one shell in a revolver, spinning the cylinder and pulling the trigger.

The engineer who ran a train on milk should give lessons to the motorist who tries to drive on liquor.

Chemicals ~ Termed Industry of the Year

By Roger W. Babson The chemical business is my nomination for the "Industry of 1933." Each year I like to select an industry which will be a leader during the new year.

volume does not suffer as drastically during recessions. Wool made from milk, roads from cotton, cloth from glass, paint from soy-beans, cosmetics from oats, vegetables in tanks are a few of the new products which the chemists have recently discovered.

making automobile tires. New construction and home improvement should boost the demand for paints and lacquers. Medical requirements maintain a steady outlet for medicinal chemicals.

current slump has started prices down again and the outlook is consequently better. Moreover, the industry is too complex and nimble to be an easy stickup for politicians.