

Hillsboro B. P. Club Assists at Convention

A record crowd attended the Business and Professional Women's State convention at McMinnville Friday and Saturday, with the emblem breakfast and installation of officers held at the Dorchester house at Ocean Lake Sunday morning.

Mrs. Leona Bryant of Coquille was elected president, succeeding Mrs. Zola Morgan of Hillsboro, who completes a successful two years' term as president. Other state officers are Miss Evangeline Philbin of Portland, vice president, Mrs. Mabel Mack of Medford, second vice president, Mrs. Irene Ringnette, Grants Pass, recording secretary, Mrs. Harriet Oiska, Coquille, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Edna Koonitz, Marshfield, treasurer. All sections of the state were represented by committee chairmen, and Mrs. Emma McKinney was re-elected as editor of the Oregon Business Woman.

Hillsboro club was in charge of the Oregon Products luncheon Saturday at the Linfield college commons with Judge R. Frank Peters as the speaker. The coffee cake trio, Mrs. Vene Gardner, Mrs. Ben Faber and Mrs. William Enache, sang several groups of songs with Mrs. Fred Sewell as accompanist. Mrs. Grace Maine, president-elect of the McMinnville club, presided, and Mrs. Berneta Kummer of the local club was toastmistress and gave the address of welcome. Miss Sadie Bruce, president of the McMinnville club, responded. C. K. Knickerbocker, president of the McMinnville chamber of commerce, also welcomed the guests.

Miss Amy Lowellen of the faculty of Washington State college was the speaker at the state banquet Saturday night, the highlight of the social events of the convention. Mrs. Zola Morgan was toastmistress.

Mrs. Zola Morgan was presented with a silver coffee set by the state executive council in appreciation of her work as president. Miss Elaine Caldwell of this city and Miss Constance Lofth of Hood River, members of the executive council who are to be brides this summer, were also presented with lovely silver gifts at the banquet.

Hood River club won the chorale contest in class B, and Klamath Falls received the prize in class A. The contest preceded the banquet.

Klamath Falls also won the traveling trophy with about 30 members in attendance.

Dr. Elam Anderson of Linfield college was the speaker Sunday morning's breakfast, and the Methodist club exemplified the emblem ceremony.

Next year's state convention will be held at Corvallis.

Delegates from the Hillsboro club in attendance were Misses Berneta Kummer, president; Pearl Allen, Frances Post, Julia Tatom, and Mrs. Margaret Sahnou, and many other members attended part of the sessions.
