Drunken Driver Pays $100 Fine In Justice Court

Emmett George Stafford, 34, Hillsboro, was charged with drunken driving and lodged in jail here Thursday night after he allegedly drove his truck into two parked cars belonging to John Gates and Marion B. Northrup, both of Hillsboro route 3. Deputy Sheriff Ben Cornelius made the arrest.

Stafford pleaded guilty in Justice A. W. Havens' court to a charge of driving while intoxicated and was fined $100 and granted time to complete payment of the assessment.

Fred Geppert and Claude Samuel Boster, both of Portland, were fined $10 in Havens' justice court for drunkenness on a public highway. They were arrested Sunday by State Officer Johnson and Deputy Sheriff Ben Cornelius.

Held for Larceny

A sixteen-year-old Hillsboro youth was apprehended by sheriff's deputies and lodged in jail here Tuesday on a charge of larceny after he tried to sell stolen property to a local furniture store. The youth is accused of stealing a portable radio from a parked car belonging to Mary Caldwell, North First avenue, on the night of January 15. The radio had been purchased by Miss Caldwell at the same furniture store where the boy attempted to dispose of it. Employes at the store recognized it and notified the auhorities.

A nineteen-year-old youth arrested by Deputy Sheriff Dick Busch on a larceny charge was released on his own recognizance Friday when it was discovered he was suffering from smallpox. He was ordered to appear to face the charge on April 22.

Plumbing Removed

William T. Clark reported to the sheriff's office here Tuesday that his house on the Bertha-Beaverton highway near Tillicum Tavern was entered sometime since April 1 and all the bathroom fixtures removed. The house had been vacant and up for sale, he said. Entrance was made by breaking a window pane in the kitchen door.

Mrs. Clifford Maloney reported the theft of her car on Monday night or early Tuesday morning from her home at 648 South First avenue. The ignition key had been left in the car, she said.

E. B. Tongue Dies Of Heart Attack

ed in that capacity until January 1 1933.

Married at Forest Grove

Shortly after his first election as district attorney, he was married, on January 2, 1909, to Maud Shannon at Forest Grove.

In his younger days, Mr. Tongue was an expert horseman. He was one of the first and most active members of the Portland Hunt club and had won numerous cups at chases and other riding events. He played football on several old-time teams, most noteworthy of which was the Portland Athletic club team that won the northwest championship in about 1895. A lover of animals, he raised and kept for many years a number of thoroughbred horses and hunting dogs.

The veteran attorney is also survived by six nieces and nephews—Benjamin T. Lombard of Seattle, Margaret and Harrison Munger of Salem, Margaret and Thomas H. Tongue III of Hillsboro, and Mrs. Gerald Macnamara of Portland.

Mr. Tongue had been in ill health for the past two years.

He was a member of the Scottish Rite Masons, the Shrine, and the Knights of Pythias.

Family Reunion Brings Four Generations

Believed to be unique in Washington county records is the family reunion held here Monday which brought together representatives of four generations on each side of the house. Representing the fourth generations is the six-weeks-old baby boy being held by his proud parents. On the right side of the picture are the baby's mother, grandfather and great-grandmother and on the left side are the father, grandmother and great-grandmother.

Four Generations on Both Sides Of Family Assembled at Reunion

Four generations on both sides of the family were represented in a unique reunion here Monday at the old Christian church home of Mrs. A. J. Perkins on South Third avenue. Ages in the group ranged from 83 years for the eldest to six weeks for the youngest.

On the Perkins side of the house were Mrs. A. J. Perkins, 83, great-grandmother; B. R. Perkins, 50, Zenith, Wash., grandfather; Mrs. Katherine DuFresne (nee Katherine Perkins), 23, Portland, mother, and John Joseph Dufresne, infant son.

Baby Joins Families

The same generations were represented on the other side of the house by Mrs. J. W. Lund, 70, Minneapolis, great-grandmother; Mrs. George DuFresne, 45, Portland, grandmother; John J. DuFresne, 26, Portland, father, and young John Joseph joining the two family branches in the fourth generation.

Of Mrs. Perkins' six children, five are living. She also has 18 living grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren. She is the oldest Hillsboro member of the Christian church and her home is reputedly the first Christian church built west of the Rocky mountains.

Mrs. Perkins' husband, the late T. B. Perkins, was in the merchandise business in Hillsboro in the early days.

Captain Kroeger Speaks at Rotary

Captain Arthur Kroeger pointed to the need of preparedness in speaking before the Rotary club Thursday noon. Officers and enlisted men of Battery E, 218th field artillery, local national guard company, were present at the luncheon as guests of Donelson & Sewell. Fred Sewell, who was program chairman, pointed to the economic value of the national guard company here from the standpoint of a $6,000 annual payroll.

Lack of training of officers and men in many cases during the World war was shameful, according to Captain Kroeger.

Answer to the American people's desire for peace is adequate preparedness, declared the guard commander, who said ability to protect ourselves was just good common sense. He pointed out that the United States had had 110 wars and that not one of them had been started by the United States army.

Safety Sonnet

"Traffic chiseling" is an insidious art which in many circumstances produces more disastrous results than openly reckless driving, in the opinion of Earl Snell, secretary of state.

While the chiseler often suffers from his own actions, nearly as frequently does he force other drivers into difficulties while he himself goes free.

The traffic chiseler is the person who seizes the right-of-way whenever he thinks he can get it, whether it is rightfully his or not; he passes other cars when he has restricted clearance, forcing them to slow down suddenly or take to the ditch; he never slows down when he is on a through street but cuts across in front of cars which are making a legitimate attempt to get through other traffic, park in restricted zones, drive slowly in spots where other traffic is moving fast, and honk through crowded spots where he should go slowly and wait his turn.

Many persons are guilty of occasional chiseling without knowing that they are putting other drivers at a disadvantage. Every driver should take stock of his own driving habits and see whether he sometimes fails to give other drivers the privileges that are rightfully theirs, according to Snell.

Oil Firm Plans Ad Campaign

Advertising campaign announcing a new motor fuel produced by Richfield Oil corporation will be launched in the Hillsboro Argus in the near future, according to word received from Richfield. The campaign, one of the largest in the company's history, will be carried in 230 western newspapers.

No official statement has been made in regard to the character of the new product, but reports indicate that a new, more powerful gasoline, entirely new to the petroleum industry, is to be offered.

West Union

Mrs. J. C. Bechen returned from a ten day vacation trip to Tacoma, where she visited her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Braman. While there they took a trip to Spokane, stopping at Grand Coulee dam, and visited at the W. S. Odell home in Valleyford.

Barbara Bellinger of McMinnville visited West Union school Friday afternoon and partook in the Easter egg hunt.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Jacobson, Betty, Doris, Marion and Jimmy and Mr. and Mrs. George Jacobson were Easter dinner party guests of Mrs. Peter Jacobson of Portland.

Fire Permits To be Required After May 15

Cecil Kyle, state fire warden for the southern part of the northwest unit of Oregon, states that so many people are in doubt as to the date on which the fire season begins that an explanation of this law should be beneficial and perhaps save considerable worry and inconvenience to a number of people who wish to do some spring burning on their lands.

The state fire season begins on May 15th, on which date the burning permit law goes into effect and burning permits are required before any burning can be done. Although burning permits are not required prior to this date, the parties doing any burning are still responsible and liable for any damage done by fires started by them. It is very important, therefore, that every precaution be taken to confine one's fires to his own property and not to permit it to spread on to adjacent lands.

Vegetation Harmed

Years of experience has brought out the fact that spring burning of fern patches and pastures is decidedly detrimental to all vegetation on the areas burned. All reproduction and seeds are destroyed on land that is burned over repeatedly, year after year, and a denuded tract is the inevitable result. Spring burning in many localities, is very beneficial and should not be discouraged; at the same time, however, one must bear in mind the liability and damage that might result.

There persists also the ever present danger of "hangover fires" from burning done late in the spring. A "hangover fire" is one that remains more or less inactive until a hot day occurs and then starts up again to cause trouble. For this reason all spring burning should be watched closely to make sure that all fire is either burned out or has been put out before the hot weather comes along and starts it off again.

Co-operation in the matter of spring burning will do much toward conserving the natural resources of our state in these times when conservation is becoming more and more important.

THE CONQUEROR

He found a world hung upside down;
He turned it rightside up.
Not for Himself He sought renown—
He drank scorn's deadly cup.

He built soul-temples of pure gold.
Though called no home His own.
He crushed Sin's temples into mold.
Restored His people's hope outworn.

No conqueror had such far-flung sweep;
The world His battlefield.
But left no slaves to mourn and weep;
Love was His sword and shield.

Bold sin and evil fled below;
His words were living breath;
He conquered every mortal foe;
The last of these was Death.

Millspaugh Rites At 2 P.M. Today

Mrs. Amanda Bell Millspaugh, 84, resident of Hillsboro for most of the past 47 years, died Tuesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Klineman, in Portland. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. today (Thursday) in the Donelson and Sewell chapel, Rev. R. L. Putnam officiating, with interment in the Fir Lawn cemetery.

Surviving are one son, Edward, in Spokane, Wash., and two other daughters, Mrs. Jessie Hanshew of Hillsboro and Mrs. Eugenia Housley of Yoncalla. Mrs. Millspaugh was a member of the Eastern Star until recently when ill health forced her to retire. Her husband, Thomas Jefferson Millspaugh, who died here on December 12, 1938, had been a Mason for 65 years.

Mrs. Millspaugh was born in Iowa, October 1, 1855, and first came to Hillsboro in the late 1890's. She had resided in Hillsboro for eight years prior to January of this year when she went to live with her daughter in Portland.

Bicyclists who ride without lights at night, and who ride swiftly into the street from a sideroad, alley or sidewalk, are among the chief contributors to collisions between bicycles and automobiles, according to Secretary of State Earl Snell. Bicyclists who make sudden turns without signaling, who cling to moving vehicles or who ride two abreast on the highway also become involved in many mishaps.

Mental Millstones are Going Out of Style

Too often we have met a person who was content to wear defeat like a millstone 'round his neck. How refreshing it was to see him resolve to use his neck to hold up his chin! Then he saw a failure for what it should be—not a millstone but a milestone on the road to long-range achievement. It's how well he carried on that was all-important. He had looked defeat in the face and no longer feared it. Nor would he let mild success lull him into lazy contentment. He was ready for his full share of the glorious opportunities that America alone can offer him. He went swinging down the highway with the courage of youth—the spirit of America.
