(By Thomas Reed)
SCHOLLS—On June 15 Lorance Dussert assisted by Byrle Ramp will give a concert of sacred songs at the Scholls Methodist church.

Attends Fair

Herbert Herd went with the Future Farmers of America from Oregon to attend the World's fair at San Francisco, Cal., Tuesday morning.

The Fred Abschers went to Millwaukie Sunday to attend a birthday party in honor of his grandfather, Fred Brikemeier Sr., who was 88 years young.

Five cars were used Monday to take the young folks to daily Bible school being held at the Baptist church in Hillsboro.

Mrs. Carl Carlson had her garden eaten up by four strange cows. Scholls Grange will meet at the Grange hall Saturday, June 17. Young folks 15 years and older are urged to join the Grange. Through the work of the order they will learn to appreciate agriculture. For the girls there are sewing, canning, art and flower projects to be taken up under the guidance of competent leaders. For the boys they can take up carpenter work, learn how to care for trees, shrubs, etc. Joining the grange is one step toward being a successful farmer or farmer's wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Trask and daughter Jean made the Mt. Hood loop for their Sunday outing. During their drive they encountered a heavy snowstorm.

Memorial Day Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Trask went to Lions where his father is buried. They attended Memorial services at Sublimity and also visited at the Vern Scott home.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Potter visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Potter, of Mills City Sunday.

Mrs. McCann Hostess
The Scholls Women's club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. McCann. The ladies served a luncheon. Those in charge of the program were Mrs. Sam Gotter and Mrs. W. A. Bunnell. The roll call was "The kind of a vacation I would most enjoy."

Wilbur McKune and Luther Miller spent the week-end at Pacific City and found the weather stormy and wet.

A family reunion was held at the Carl Rueck home on Memorial Day. A picnic dinner was served. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller, Mrs. Fred Miller, Warren Miller, Ed Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Miller and two children.

Hesse Loses Peas
H. T. Hesse had ten acres of peas that because of the dry weather did not grow high enough to be cut for the cannery so allowed his neighbors to come in and pick them for their own use. After the peas had been picked he plowed the vines under. Many other farmers had the misfortune to have their acreage of peas rejected for the same reason by the cannery.

Clarence Heaton, Bob Baxter and Henry Peters and Chad Haynes went fishing on the Wilson river Sunday. Bob Baxter landed a 25-pound and an 18-pound Chinook salmon and Chad Haynes landed a 5-pound and a 10-pound salmon.

County Agent Cyrus inspected E. G. Heaton's two acres of black-caps and found potato blight in the patch. There are a number of patches on the mountain suffering from the same disease. Moral is do not plant any blackcaps on potato land until four years have elapsed from the first planting of potatoes.

Strawberries can be planted through as they do not pick up this kind of blight.

The cemetery of Mountside looked beautifully over Memorial Day and is well kept due to the efforts of the Cemetery association and friends and relatives of those who have gone before.

Mrs. T. R. Moore and her son James have the mumps this week. Tom Stretcher, student at O. S. C. at Corvallis, is here for the summer vacation.

Master Avery Lee Shipley of Manzanita is spending his vacation on the farm with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Heaton.

The Clifford Trasks are having the interior of their residence remodeled and re-decorated this week. Walter Jaquith is doing the work.

Marian Pellamy was the leader of the Epworth league Sunday night and there were 28 present.

Thursday night will be the last choir practice for the summer.

1939 Motor Cruise: Irrigated Oasis

Above, a huge siphon carrying water 4 1/2 miles for watering crops; below, sheep grazing along banks of an irrigation ditch.

This newspaper is co-operating with the Oregon State Motor association and The Oregonian in presenting a series of motorlogs designed to stimulate travel in Oregon and the Pacific northwest. This article was condensed from a full page article appearing in The Oregonian June 4.

An Oregonian-Oregon State Motor association motorlog party, touring eastern Oregon, found the Ontario-Nyssa area on the Oregon-Idaho border a verdant paradise compared with the arid central Oregon plateau the party had just traversed on the Central Oregon highway.

Water provided by the Vale-Owyhee reclamation projects has made it possible for scores of farmers, many of them from the dust bowl, to convert sage brush land into fertile farms, and the population of northern Malheur county is increasing by leaps and bounds as a result. Claude A. McPherson, secretary of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, was guide for the party on its tour of the new farms on the bench lands west of Nyssa. He suggested H. L. Sisson would be a good farmer to visit, he having been described as a typical settler who was making a success of his new venture.

Mr. Sisson came to the Owyhee district not quite three years ago from Twin Falls, Idaho, where he previously had farmed irrigated land. He has cleared a large part of his 160 acres, grows hay for a herd of 21 cows, the milk from which he sells to a co-operative creamery at Payette, Idaho. He has done well enough to be able to import a registered Guernsey bull from Astoria and plans to buy a milking machine in the fall.

Sugar beets are an important crop in the Owyhee district since the erection of a large sugar refinery at Nyssa last year. The motorlog party saw many fields of beets, which at the time of the visit were being thinned by large gangs of men and women.

A close-up inspection was made of the 4 1/2-mile long siphon pipe, 6 feet 3 inches in diameter, which carries water to the bench lands to the north. The huge pipe can be seen for miles, climbing up and down hills.

The transformation of sage brush land into farms on a big scale is a revelation to western Oregon people, members of the motorlog party agreed. Good highways lead from Portland to Ontario and a loop trip can be made by traveling the Central Oregon highway one way and the Old Oregon trail and Columbia river highway the other way. By way of Bend and Burns, Ontario is 461 miles from Portland. By way of the Columbia river highway and the Old Oregon trail the distance is 414 miles.
