New Jury List For July Term May Be Drawn

With the grand jury taking seven of the 31 jurors recently drawn for the July term of circuit court and other jurors on the list removing 15 others, only nine jurors were left on the list Monday, making it probable that another list will have to be drawn up before a trial by jury can be held.

Of the original 31 jurors listed, 14 were excused—either permanently or until September—and one person did not report, leaving only 16 names from which to draw both a grand and petit jury.

Grand Jury Listed. Those selected for the grand jury are Leonard Van Lom, Philip W. Watkins, Mary French, Joseph Jackson, Walter Ferguson, Olivia Wilkins and Lewis L. Crawford, who was selected foreman. The grand jury was instructed by Judge R. Frank Peters and taken to the grand jury room for a short meeting with District Attorney G. Russell Morgan.

Of the 14 excused, six will report during September. They are Ray Shoules, Edward H. Branday, Robert H. Bellinger, Daniel A. Herb, Samuel C. Inkle and Mada Abdegren. Those permanently excused for various and sundry valid reasons are George Rapprecht, Jr., G. A. Dickie, Humphrey Boyd, Charles Blair, Paul B. Kent, James W. Davis, Robert W. Erickson and John C. Bilyeu.

One Not Reported. Marcela Van Lom, who is away on a vacation trip, was the only juror who did not report. The nine remaining for circuit court are George Blasser, Ruth Gates, Nels Christensen, Emma Meit, Ada Adair, Cutting E. J. Boes, Jean A. Brownhill, W. C. Christensen and Lila Anderson.

It is possible that no jury cases will be docketed until September, in which case it would not be necessary to draw a new list.

been taking treatments in Portland. He reports very poor crops in the gateway region because of drought.
