B.P. Club Members Hear Book Talk; Meeting Tonight

"Books are precious things. Know something, do something. If you like people this is a wonderful world for you. Be normal mentally and physically. Keep up with the times. Streamline your mind as well as your body. Be courteous with a smile" were some of the pithy bits Miss Vivian Cooley gave the Business and Professional Women's club in a talk at a dinner meeting Friday evening at the chamber of commerce.

Miss Cooley, head of the book department of Meier & Frank's, Portland, has a dynamic personality and her talk of "Modern Trends," in which she discussed the business woman's place in the modern world, the books she should read, and her responsibilities to those about her, was a powerful inspiration to the forty women present. Miss Cooley was accompanied by Mrs. Ada Hild, president of the Portland B. P. W. club and a former member of the club here. Special musical numbers were given by the high school girls, Misses Marjorie Sigler, Beverly Hard, and Neva Ziegler.

The business meeting of the club will be held tonight (Thursday) at the home of Mrs. Mabel Schenkel. A forum with members discussing changes in business and social service work will be a feature of the evening's program. Those who will give talks are Mrs. Elva Batchelder, social service worker; Mrs. Anna Townsend, secretary; Miss Georgia Brown, teacher; Mrs. Maude Boswell, county treasurer; Mrs. Isabel Warren, supervising WPA project; Mrs. Marguerite Tasker, photographer; Mrs. Anna Wells, city council member and Miss Etta Mae Wells, county health nurse.
