Barn and Other Buildings on Remi Vuylsteke Farm Destroyed

BANKS—The barn, machine shed, hog house and other farm buildings on the farm of Remi Vuylsteke burned Saturday. Several logs were also burned. The house also caught on fire, but was saved by the Forest Grove rural fire truck, which arrived promptly, and by the help of neighbors.

Mr. Vuylsteke had started his tractor in the barn shortly before the fire and it is supposed the fire started from a spark from it. While Mr. Vuylsteke was on the house roof helping put out the fire, he fell to the ground injuring himself. He was taken to a doctor and is able to be about on crutches.

Robert Pickering, who has been visiting his aunt, Mrs. William Moore, and family, left Wednesday for his home in California.

Carbon Knocks

Carbon deposits cause the engine to knock when it is speeded up, according to the emergency road service of the Oregon State Motor association. Such deposits usually are caused by oil which leaks past the piston rings into the combustion chamber.

Teachers Get Pay

(By George N. Taylor, Beaverton) The teachers who give the Bible Credit Course offered the Portland high school students, serve without pay. But such product as the following is pay in itself. One of the boys turned this out in a recent test at the end of his first year which covered Who Is Who In The New Testament. (New York, St. Louis, Philadelphia, Detroit, Omaha and other of the larger cities have already opened to the Bible work or are studying the plan of released time during school hours). Here is what the boy wrote:

"I would like to imitate Paul's Character Traits in doing what he thought was right. He persecuted the Christians because he thought that was the right thing to do. After his conversion, he worked just as hard carrying on Christ's work as he had worked to persecute the Christians.

"Another of Paul's traits which is well worth following is his bravery. He was willing to suffer anything if it aided Christianity. An example of this is his being stoned at Lystra. I would like to imitate Paul in his kindness. He performed many miracles.

"I would profit by being an unselfish as Paul. When he was on trial before Felix and before Festus and before Agrippa and Bernice, he spent the time preaching the Gospel to them instead of trying to defend himself. I would also like to be as mentally alert as Paul Bely. As a young man he came from England and was employed on the Wren farm. Norma Keiser is remaining at the Wren home for a month's visit.

"And last but not least, I would like to imitate Paul's character trait in relying on God, for had he not been Spirit guided, he would never have accomplished what he did.

So wrote the boy. And now we ask a question that we cannot put to them in the class room. When you pass from here will it be to meet Christ as Saviour, or will it be to meet your sins and Christ as Judge? "God commendeth his love toward us, in that while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." Which For You? Out In Eternity? To Have God's Love Forever Or To Anguish And Woe Forever? Which? Christ Your Saviour Or Christ The Judge? Out In Eternity. Which For You?—Paid Adv.
