

Denney Clan Has Annual Reunion On Old Cabin Site

The Denney clan held its annual reunion and picnic on the banks of Fanno creek Sunday on the site of the log cabin, which Thomas and Berilla Denney built in 1850 after having crossed the plains in 1849. Their donation land claim of 640 acres is still owned mostly by their heirs, although it is only seven miles from the heart of Portland.

About thirty attended Sunday. Visiting and horseshoe pitching were enjoyed. Kenneth Denney and Ira G. McCormick won in a closely contested game with R. B. Denney and S. B. Lawrence.

The time of meeting was changed from the third Sunday in August to the first Sunday in order not to conflict with the annual state Farmers' Union picnic.
