Dr. Wiley Back From Hospital, Clinic Studies

Dr. D. E. Wiley returned by plane Saturday from the east where he has been studying this summer. He spent eight weeks taking a post-graduate course at Cook county hospital in Chicago, and a week in the Mayo Clinic in Rochester. During his absence his office, surgery and X-ray rooms were completely redecorated.

Plane Ride Enjoyable
Except for a little bumpy riding over the mountains, the plane trip both ways was very enjoyable, Dr. Wiley reports. The scenery spread out below his cabin window could not be duplicated by any other means of travel, he said.

Although surgical studies kept Dr. Wiley so busy that he had little time for visiting or other social engagements, his stay in Chicago was not without its interesting sidelights. The most out-of-the-ordinary incident, Dr. Wiley recalls, was being stopped on the street by a "walking jewelry shop."

A rather flashily dressed man accosted the visitor from Hillsboro, inquiring about the location of a street corner. In conversation which ensued, he offered to sell an "expensive appearing" diamond ring, the price being the amount of a bus ticket to Philadelphia.

When Dr. Wiley declined the offer, the curb salesman produced another smaller ring. To prove the stones were real, he scratched a shop window. Dr. Wiley was still not interested, and when the stranger then began auctioning a Hamilton watch, it was "too much," the local surgeon reports, and he adjourned the street conference.
