First 4-H Girls' Tour Enjoyed; 45 on Jaunt

The first 4-H girls' club tour in Washington county was held Thursday, August 23. Forty-five girls and leaders assembled to visit a local bakery, the Argus office, LaVerne's Dress shop, and the Maling cannery in the morning. In the afternoon the group observed and discussed kitchen planning at the Harry Morgan home; then went to the Jackson and Fred Beach homes at North Plains, where home grounds were studied.

Highlights of the tour were observing angel cakes browning in the bakery oven; watching the cookie machine cut ginger cookies; seeing constant tasterooms coming from the press; seeing the plaque won by the Hillsboro Argus for being the outstanding weekly newspaper in the U. S.; hearing tales of newspaper adventure recounted by Verne McKinney; modeling sweaters and jackets at the dress shop; watching the speedy preparation of peaches for freezing by immaculate workers at the cannery; admiring the corn-husking machine, enjoying the coolness of the courthouse lawn at noon; approving of the plan of the homes and yards visited in the afternoon; enjoying a refreshing glass of punch at Effie Jackson's; and taking mental measurements of a reclining outdoor chair in the Fred Beach yard.

Clubs represented in the tour were North Plains cookery club, West Union clothing club, Helvetia canning club, Purdin clothing club, and Mountandale clothing club. The group was accompanied by Zola Morgan from the county school superintendent's office, and Kathleen McCrae, home demonstration agent.
