THE WHITE HOUSE WASHINGTON

September 4, 1940

My Dear Mr. Hardy:

I hope in observance of National Newspaper Week that due emphasis will be placed on the necessity for maintaining freedom of the press in a democracy. Freedom of conscience, education, of speech, of assembly are among the very fundamentals of democracy and all of them would be nullified should freedom of the press ever be successfully challenged.

I have little fear that freedom of the press will be abridged from external assault in this country. The danger is from internal corruption. If our press exemplifies a passion for truth and justice and fair play to all, it will avoid that spiritual paralysis and decay which are the deadly enemies of our free institutions.

I trust as a result of the forthcoming celebration, that our newspapers everywhere great and small will rise anew to the tremendous responsibilities which are theirs.

Very sincerely yours,

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.
