Church Shows Growth
At the quarterly meeting of the Baptist church last Wednesday, thirty were present. After a potluck supper, reports from the different departments of the church showed a healthy growth and spirit of the church, and as a natural corollary to this, no financial deficits to face the members.

House Saved
Heroic efforts and rare presence of mind saved a house last Saturday fire broke out at the bottom of a defective flue in the residence of R. J. Haas. While Mr. Haas was gone to a neighbor's to telephone the fire department, Mrs. Haas removed the furniture, all except the davenport, which was too heavy for her to lift, seized an axe, chipped a hole in the wall near the flue, dashed water on the danger spot, and put out the fire. When Mr. Haas returned he was surprised to find the fire all out and Mrs. Haas about all in.

Much of the ornamental shrubbery set out on the treeless plains of Aloha in early days, has become so dense that many home owners are grubbing up and thinning out.

Spring Wardrobe Is "Pure Velvet" For Chas. Walker

All "decked out" with a new spring wardrobe is Charles Walker, Oregon Mutual insurance agent here, as a result of his growing habit of winning contests for sales increases with that firm.

"Charlie," as he is familiarly known here, was second man in the entire state for premium increase shown during the year 1940. Making his accomplishment more honorary is the fact that he is a one-man agency whereas many other agencies in his competition division, including the largest Mutual agents in the state, have a number of salesmen in the field.

For winning the second place, Charlie was awarded his choice of any suit of clothes in a well-known woolen goods house in Portland. But that is not all. He won a necktie as third place winner in the month of December, 1940, and a sport jacket for second place in the month preceding.

His premium increase for the year was over 15 per cent. In notifying Walker of his accomplishment, Gordon Baker, executive vice-president of the company, added a friendly postscript: "P. S. When you are all dolled up in these new clothes, give me a ring so I can come over and see you."

Local "Quiz Kids" Question is Used
One of the questions used on last Wednesday's "Quiz Kids" program was sent in by Joseph Heineck, Hillsboro, route 4, and he has been awarded a new Zenith portable radio by sponsors of the program.

"Quiz Kids" is a weekly radio program presented each Wednesday evening. Heineck asked the "Quiz Kids" to name at least three monarchs who are still sitting on their thrones in Europe. Three of the boy Quizzees named these monarchs for the local man. They are King Gustav of Sweden, King George of Greece and King Victor Emanuel of Italy.
