

Home Nursing and First Aid Classes Being Held Here

"Home Nursing and Pressure Points of First Aid" classes, which have been started here through the Red Cross, have brought many requests for information regarding this course from women who are desirous of helping in defense work.

Four classes in this particular course are in progress at the present time, with Mrs. Hayes Bickford as teacher of the groups. Mrs. Bickford is an American Red Cross nurse and a former teacher in public health nursing. Classes are held at the Red Cross House, 337 South Third, on Monday and Tuesday at 4 o'clock and from 7 to 9 o'clock.

While these classes have a full membership at present, other classes will be started as soon as qualified teachers and supplies are available.

Mrs. C. T. Richardson is organizer and registrar of all classes and names left with her will be added to the waiting list for future entry. (Phone 4341).

These classes must not be confused with First Aid classes now in progress at the city hall, nor with "first aid" courses being held in Portland.
