A B-2 card will have 10 instead of 15, and B-3 card 13 instead of 19. X cards will be issued to the same group of specified drivers for "essential" use.

Some easing of the gasoline rationing situation as regards to workers in connection with harvest of vegetables, berries, fruit and hops is indicated in a telegram received Wednesday from Senator Charles L. McNary by chamber of commerce secretary Leon Davis. The wire:

"Have conferred with fuel ration section office of price administration and have obtained the following information which price administration said should be given the widest possible circulation in Oregon, Washington and California. So that migrant workers may feel free to move through these states in connection with harvesting of vegetables, berries, fruits and hops: Section 1394.3 emergency gasoline regulations permits local rationing boards to issue supplemental ration to migrant workers requiring car for travel from job to job through the Pacific coast states. Requirement of proof that no alternative means of transportation available is not applicable to application for supplemental ration to permit transportation of car itself where car is to be used for occupational purposes at destination".
