Mrs. Samsel Speaks at Scholls; Club Plans Rubber Campaign

SCHOLLS—American homes compare more than favorably with those of European countries, according to Mrs. S. Samsel, speaker at the Scholls Women's club meeting on June 9, with "American Homes" as the topic of the day. Mrs. Samsel was introduced by Mrs. Christine Hawker, home supervisor for the Farm Security Administration of Hillsboro for the past eight years.

The various countries of Europe have their separate characteristics, but are alike in one feature, namely, the lack of refrigeration, or long-time preservation of food, she stated. Even in homes of the wealthy, refrigerators are not common. Three examples of homes visited by Mrs. Samsel during a sojourn in Europe were described, the first, a Dutch home. Spotlessly clean, the windows were washed every day. Flowers were of cobblestones, and furnishings of the quaint parlor were similar to those of American homes of fifty years ago. The second home was of moderate circumstances, quite comparable to the American home except for the kitchen, which did not contain the modern electric equipment known to housewives of our country. In this climate, where night is only two hours long in the summer and the sun shines only two hours a day in the winter, it was noted that people have very poor teeth. Children of four and five years have teeth decayed to the roots, undoubtedly due to lack of vitamin in the diet, which is made up mainly of such vegetables as cabbage and potatoes and other root crops that can be stored or buried for preservation. The third home was an English home of the upper class, located in a small village made up of servants of the estate. Differences in classes were decided, but this sharp division is expected to be changed by the war, which has caused every class to unite in common work for defense. "Canned" food is "bottled" food in England, but here, too, preservation of food for a long time is not greatly practiced.

Asks for Rubber

Mayor Hugh S. Rogers asks 100 per cent co-operation of Hillsboro in nation's scrap rubber drive and urges immediate action.

People Urged to Aid Scrap Rubber Drive

scrap rubber in the country from June 15 to June 30.

He promised, however, that there would be enough of the vital rubber to build the planes to bomb Tokyo and Berlin, to crush the enemy wherever he is found and "win this war."

"I know," the president declared, "that I don't need to urge you to take part in this collection drive. All you need to know is the place to take your rubber and the time to take it there—and the fact that your country needs it."

Essentials Not Wanted
We do not want you to turn in essential rubber that you need in your daily life—rubber you will have to replace by buying new things in the store. We do want every bit of rubber you can possibly spare—and in any quantity. We want it in every form. If you think it is rubber take it to your nearest filling station.

While he predicted that the problem would be solved, he said there was one unknown factor—the size of the stock pile. It is unknown, he said, how much used rubber there is, which can be reclaimed and reprocessed, combined with available new rubber, and put to military and civilian purposes. That is why the collection drive was ordered.

The question whether nationwide gasoline rationing will be ordered to save rubber may depend on the success of the rubber collection drive.

The president, earlier, appealed to motorists everywhere to cut down on pleasure driving and reduce both automobile speed and mileage.

Responsibility for the rubber salvage drive was placed primarily with the nation's petroleum industry.

Accepting "the assignment with enthusiasm," William R. Boyd Jr., head of the petroleum industry war council and president of the American Petroleum institute, announced that 1,000,000 men and women engaged in the oil industry, 400,000 filling stations and the industry's automotive equipment "and cash" would be put to work on the salvage campaign, which will continue through June 30.

Mr. Roosevelt urged individuals throughout the country to search through their basements, attics and back yards for all items of the precious rubber scrap, pieces that have been or can be discarded. Offices, factories and farms were asked to co-operate.

Many Items Suitable
Among the old rubber items wanted are tires, inner tubes, crepe rubber socks, boots and overshoes, hot water bottles, tennis shoes, rubber belting, rubber gloves, rubber sheeting, pads and matting, raincoats, rubber heels, bathing caps, jar rings, plumbers' suction caps, sample tire sections, rubber ash trays—and hundreds of other articles containing rubber.

O. B. Gates, Hillsboro chairman of the Salvage for Victory Drive, requests all persons to give this rubber drive their fullest cooperation.

First—To get all scrap or unused rubber into the hands of the government agencies, thereby probably assuring ample rubber for war work and also possibly saving future drastic regulations of auto use to save rubber.

Second—To take advantage of the present much better price for scrap rubber than will probably be in effect after this drive.

The Hillsboro chairman further requests that you remember the Scrap for Victory Drive and dispose of your scrap metal to help war production material. The Tillamook Valley Co-operative, 449 South Second avenue will pay Portland prices for same.

Mrs. Bemiss Dies At Forest Grove

Funeral services will be held this afternoon (Thursday) at 2 o'clock at the Forest Grove Undertaking chapel for Amy L. Bemiss, 75, a Forest Grove resident for 25 years, who died Sunday after an illness of three months. Burial will be at Forest View cemetery, following services by Rev. Jesse Bunch.

Gillis, Bremerton, Wash.; a brother, Frank E. Brooks, Wichita, Kans.; nine grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Bemiss was born in Peaslee, Wis., October 13, 1866. She was married in Wichita, Kans., on November 17, 1890, to Hallett R. Bemiss, deceased, and moved to Seattle in 1892, coming to Oregon in 1903. She was very active in Sunday school and church work as long as her health permitted.
