An Open Letter
 to the Publishers of the Hillsboro Argus:

The veterans of the first World War feel that they know the utter loneliness that comes to a man in the service miles away from his home community and friends. We know the extreme importance that becomes attached to even trivial things happening at home. This void cannot be filled entirely by letters and is best answered by a chance to read the "home-town paper."

A long way from home it is encouraging to know that "home" is like you remember it, and that your "home folks" are remembering you and doing their part to win the war. The Argus tells this story.

We wish to express our appreciation to the publishers of the Argus for their action in sending the paper to the boys of this community who are in the service. We assure you that it is being appreciated and fulfilling a great need in our boys' morale. We take this method of expressing it, that you and your subscribers might know that your work is important and appreciated. On behalf of our comrades in World War II, we wish to say "Thank You."

Sincerely yours,
 HILLSBORO POST OF AMERICAN LEGION
