

No Unnecessary Pound of Food Can Be Wasted; Suggestions Give Help

Americans have the reputation of being the greatest wasters of food in the world. Some government statisticians have figured out that 28 per cent of all food purchased finally finds its way to the garbage can, says V. S. Madsen, chairman of the Washington county nutrition committee for defense. With the entire country being organized to produce every pound of food possible for war purposes, it is equally important that no unnecessary pound be wasted, he said.

The first place to eliminate waste is by careful buying, according to Dr. Vivian Roberts, assistant professor of foods and nutrition at Oregon State college. What looks like a bargain in fruits or vegetables may be a real bargain or the low price may be caused by blemishes or outright decay that will make the actual usable food higher priced than first-grade stuff.

Proper storage of food in the home is another important step in preventing spoilage and waste. Dr. Roberts points out. Vegetables are best washed and placed in a hy-drat or covered container in the refrigerator, or wrapped in moist cloth in an ordinary cooler. All liquids and cooked foods keep better, without either loss or absorption of odors, if kept well covered in the refrigerator.

One of the commonest forms of waste is from discarding the tops or outer leaves of such vegetables as beets, turnips, cauliflower, lettuce, and cabbage. The outer green leaves are richer sources of vitamins and minerals than are the inner bleached leaves. The tops may be cooked separately and used as vegetable. If not desirable in the main dish they may be shredded for salads or sandwiches, or used with bacon fat and vinegar in the form of "colored lettuce," says Dr. Roberts. Outer stalks and leaves of celery may be used to add variety and interest, as well as nutrients, to soups, sauces, or many of the new dishes being made with legumes.

Leftover vegetables are especially important now as meat extenders in meat loaf or vegetable pies, while leftover meats themselves, even to the bones and trimmings, are particularly precious. These days leftover meats may be used with vegetables by the clever housewife in soups, stews, meat loaf, meat pies, or meat roll in such a way that they are never recognized as leftovers. Extra fats or fryings, when strained and kept fresh, are valuable in adding flavor to foods, with any excess now much in demand by the government for making munitions.

A final way to check waste mentioned by Dr. Roberts is by saving the maximum nutrients in food by proper cooking methods, which include the use of liquids in which vegetables are cooked for making soups, sauces, or gravies, for moistening a meat loaf, or as stock for a stew. Checking waste is both economical and patriotic these days.

God's Melting Pot

(By Geo. N. Taylor, Cloverdale)

Of old, Miss Trot About never did give herself to the newspapers. All she knew was the gossip of the hour. Into the church that received her, came Mr. Studious, who liked you would find him off in a quiet corner, deep in his favorite book, gleaming the wisdom of the ages. And, who, how can these two, so far apart in thinking ever work together?

And now comes Mrs. Off House, she never will she team up with any and the rest come to it or else—Next add the big company of Joyful Doers. They cry, All together now, and things move ahead. How shall such opposites as all these ever take hold together? Even though Christ gave commandment that they love one another, how can they?

Yet they do. Witness Onesimus, the runaway slave and thief, and his master, the wealthy Philemon. Master and man; owner and serf, they were, and yet brothers in Christ. Do you ask the secret? Then journey with me out beyond the Holy City on that April day in the long ago. Outlined against the deep blue dome of heaven, three suffer, crucifixion on Roman crosses. Through the morning, their lives ebb away. At noon, darkness settles down and shrouds the earth. Here fix your eye on that center cross, for there you and I have an interest. On that cross, Jesus Christ, the Son of God is dying for our sins. All we like sheep have gone astray, we have turned every one his own way; and the Lord hath laid on Him the iniquity of us all—Bible.

At heart is a love affair—For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have eternal life.—John 3:16.

What is the secret, then? How do these who so differ in thought and life, all come into one mind? Here you have it; when you make Christ

Co-operation of All Urged; Early Copy Real Necessity

Your co-operation in turning in society, club, fraternal and local news items in writing or by telephone will be greatly appreciated. All copy for this department should be turned in by or before noon on Tuesdays.

In co-operation with the defense program request for increased use of telephones. Argus society reporters will no longer make regular phone calls to local women. Whenever local people have social, club or fraternal items of general interest they are asked to please cooperate by reporting them.

Clubs, lodges and other organizations should appoint public relations chairmen or reporters and hold them responsible for seeing to it that their news activities are turned in to the Argus not later than Tuesday

Red Cross Starts Campaign for War Nurses and Aides

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Roosevelt has wholeheartedly endorsed to intensive three months campaign by the American Red Cross to recruit war nurses, nurse's aides and home nursing students.

In a letter to Chairman Norman H. Davis, the president declared "We all agree that in this war the health of our fighting men must come first. However, we also are aware that our great civilian army, our defense workers, our children and our home workers must remain healthy if this war is to be prosecuted to its fullest."

The campaign, to be launched by the Red Cross Nursing Service this month, will aim to recruit 38,000 graduate, registered nurses for the army and navy nurse corps—100,000 Red Cross nurses' aides to assist professional nurses in civilian and government hospitals—and one million students in Red Cross Home Nursing classes, teaching methods of protecting health and preventing illness in homes.

The National Broadcasting company and its affiliated stations have made available their complete facilities for promotion of the campaign. The thirteen week series will include a 30-minute live dramatic weekly series and two 15-minute transcribed dramatic programs each week. The program started Sunday, Miss Mary Beard, director of the Red Cross Nursing Service, will make an appeal to the campaign and quotas for local communities will be announced. The program will be carried on the NBC network at 9:30 a. m. Pacific War Time.

Surgeons General James C. Magee, of the U. S. army, Ross T. McIntire, of the U. S. navy and Thomas Parran, of the U. S. Public Health Service, also have endorsed the campaign's objectives.

your Lord and Saviour, He gives you a new heart. By that Dad and Mother; brother and sister, teacher and grocer; and all mankind see you keen to forgive and forget and to love your enemies.

Let Christ put you into the Royal Order of Forgivers and Forgiveners who so love their enemies that in their dying breath they pray—Father forgive them for they know not what they do.—This space paid for by an Oregon businessman.

Mrs. America Meets the War

Editor's Note: War touches every home and every citizen. This column, based on official government information and prepared by the Office of War Information, shows how the war will affect Mrs. America and her home.

New shopping habits are ahead for Mrs. America when point rationing of processed foods is introduced sometime in February with the use of War Ration Book Two. The new system of rationing will mean budgeting of points as well as money for American home-makers, and apparently it will result in less impulsive buying since a given amount of points must last over the ration period. Canned, bottled and frozen fruits and vegetables, fruit and vegetable juice, dried fruits and all canned soup will be included in the new rationing program. Through the new system of rationing, low point values will be given to foods which are relatively plentiful while high values will be given to those that are most scarce. Since home-makers will be able to get more for points by buying foods with low point values, it is expected that the demand will be relieved for the very scarce foods.

If you're shopping for a used vacuum cleaner, you're lucky because the Office of Price Administration has safeguarded you from paying inflated prices. A new price regulation results in an average reduction of four to five dollars less for most models of used cleaners than had been charged before it became effective on January 7. The regulation also sets up a standard which must be met by sellers of rebuilt machines. All rebuilt machines must have a one-year guarantee, according to the regulation.

Time will tell but indications are that Mrs. America's search for a alarm clock may soon produce a Victory model. Since the manufacture of alarm clocks was prohibited by a War Production Board order, members of the industry have been working with government officials to study the WPA suggestion for a Victory model. This would be designed to use the least amount of copper and brass in movement parts, and a non-critical case. But Mrs. America may not be so lucky since the supply of wrist watches is not being increased. Neither wrist watches nor pocket watches have been considered with the same concern as the alarm clock. Should the manufacture of watches be resumed at all it would probably be only to use the present inventories of movement parts, and a non-critical case. Although sewing machines have gone to war, there's a pretty good chance of getting them on hand in good condition. There has been an extension of production of repair parts for domestic sewing machines by the War Production Board, and needles are included.

If any meal-planners are laboring under the impression that existing meat shortages in various parts of the country are due to the amounts being sent to our British and Russian Allies, President Roosevelt's report to congress on Lend-Lease operations certainly should correct that mistaken idea. Rather it is the need of our own armed forces and increasing meat demands of hard-working, high-tax-paying citizens that is responsible for cutting our meat supply thinner at home. The president's Lend-Lease revealed that more than 30 per cent of our year's supply of beef, veal, lamb and mutton has been kept vital at home for civilians or sent to our own armed forces.

Housewives taking in roomers may exist an undesirable tenant without realizing it. The government rent official who they rent to not more than two paying guests. This amendment to the Federal Rent Control regulation was made effective to cooperate with the War Department in the National Housing Agency which is trying to provide rooms in private homes in areas suffering from housing shortages. Formerly many homeowners have been reluctant to rent rooms because of the strict OPA requirements for lamps.

Lamps that dot the average American home—table models, floor lamps, lamp-stands—are blinking out for the duration as long as the critical materials, such as tungsten, are in short supply. A War Production Board order, effective immediately, restricts the use of critical materials in portable electric lamps and wire frames for shades. Until this regulation is in effect, lamps and shades had been limited to 60 per cent of the 1942 output. However, even so it was reported that manufacturers were unable to meet the demand for lamps and shades.

Verdicts for the defendant were returned by a jury in circuit court in the damage suits of Firemen's Insurance company and Harold Johnson, Clair Johnson, Clara Johnson and Anna A. Johnson against the Southern Pacific company. The four cases were tried together the first two days of the week and the jury returned at 11:20 a. m. Wednesday and returned its

County Chairman Explains Camp, Hospital Needs

The purpose of the Camp and Hospital Service council is to coordinate efforts of organizations and individuals who wish to serve the armed forces on active duty in our area. Duplication of effort may be avoided and all soldiers on duty at posts and hospitals and in isolated units may be served with economy of time and material if advantage is taken of its information and facilities.

Our soldiers need furniture and equipment for their recreation rooms, and Washington county is asked to help furnish its share.

Let each family hold a council of war, take inventory of their unused furniture and give that which is usable to our soldiers, so that they will not have to use makeshift tables, benches and cracker boxes. The plan is to reach every family, if possible, in Washington county, through our schools, churches, service clubs and other organizations.

Mrs. E. A. Griffith, county chairman, spent the afternoon at the council meeting in Portland Tuesday, and heard Mrs. John P. Manning of Santa Barbara, Cal., national committee member of the Camp and Hospital Service council of the American Red Cross talk on camps and hospitals, and what the needs are for our boys in service. After hearing Mrs. Manning talk, Mrs. Griffith came out with the thought in mind of "We have done it before and we can do it again," so let every organization in the county call on her and do not wait for her to contact you, as this is a big job.

The following community chairmen have been appointed by Mrs. Griffith: Sherwood, Mrs. Don Galbraith; Beaverton, Mrs. W. Cavanaugh; Helvetia and West Union, Mrs. H. Falk; Orenco, Mrs. Irma Woods; North Plains, Mrs. C. D. Chamberlain; Laurel, Mrs. F. L. Brown; Forest Grove, Mrs. E. McNay; Gaston, Mrs. Lena Thomas.

There are still several communities to be contacted to appoint local chairmen. The following donations have been received: American Legion Auxiliary, $10; Lions club, $5; Coffee club, $5; American Legion, here or abroad. Eighty-seven per cent of the year's pork supply has gone for our own use with the remaining 12 per cent exported to our Allies. But the increase in pork production was subject to fluctuations of exports and still provide a normal supply. However, fighting men eat twice as much meat as civilians.

QUALITY Meats We Bring You the Best Meats Available Our business has been built on the policy of providing our customers with the best possible meats and reasonable prices. Present OPA meat quotas make this policy difficult to realize at times—we are not able to bring you the wide assortment of meats as in the past and sometimes our supply is low. However, we continue to bring you the best meats available on the market and in the widest assortment possible. We ask your co-operation... share the available meat with others by voluntarily rationing yourself to not over two and a half pounds per week per person. OUR MARKET WILL BE CLOSED THIS THURSDAY Hills
