Hillsboro, Oregon, Thursday, January 13, 1944

Volume 50, No. 42 Section Two, Six Pages

FEATURED—The above picture of Lt. Jerry Wieber, Hillsboro marine corps reserve officer now serving in the South Pacific area, is featured in Fourth War Loan campaign literature being distributed to Oregon farmers by the state war finance committee. His advancement to the rank of first lieutenant was announced last week.

Accompanying Lt. Wieber's picture was the following war bond message: "We all want to return home to Oregon, but we don't want to come back until the job is done, and you can be assured that Hitler's downfall will not end the war out here in the Pacific. If you could only see the equipment that must be shipped over here before any operation can take place, and all the dollars that equipment represents, you would more readily appreciate the need for fighting dollars obtained through war bonds."
