

AMERICAN HEROES

Seriously wounded by an exploding grenade, Marine Gunner Angus R. Cook of Tampa, Florida, leaped point-blank enemy fire to charge an enemy machine gun emplacement in a cave. Single handed, he wiped out Japanese gunners and snipers with a sub-machine gun, saving the lives of his unit. Angus is dead—leaving a Navy Cross for "indomitable fighting spirit and extreme courage." If such heroism doesn't deserve an extra War Bond, what does?
