Torpedoed at night, men of the Merchant Marine abandoned their fast-sinking ship, Frederick R. Zito, Cadet-Midshipman, left his lifeboat, climbed hand over hand up the fall, then towed the entangled man until they were picked up by a lifeboat. His is heroism beyond the line of duty. Grand Jurors Indict Three

Grand Jurors reported 6 true bills of indictment against three persons Saturday. Two of the indictments were secret. E. B. Anderson of Portland was held on three charges of larceny in a warehouse, while Al Munroe, also of Portland, faces a rape indictment.

Damages of $670 were awarded to J. R. Castleberry of Cornelius Friday by jurors hearing his suit against Richard Lewis Van Winkle, also of Cornelius. Castleberry sought $4,185 damages in the action which arose from an altercation between the two men in which the plaintiff alleged he had been stabbed. Jurors hearing the case were Mabel Downer, Essie Brooks, Hazel W. Green, Ben C. Sahnaw, J. W. Guyer, Geneva Wells, Jennie B. Graham, D. F. Fleck, John M. Person, Lester C. Ireland, Clara M. Erickson and Mint Hart.

Pleas of not guilty to two moral indictments were entered by John

J. Attebury of North Plains when he was arraigned in circuit court last week. Trial date has been set for July 18. Leo Charles Allen also pleaded not guilty to two burglary indictments the same day and trial has been set for July 19.

Richard Smith waived grand jury indictment and pleaded guilty to an assault and battery charge last week. He was fined $50.

Frank Lambrose 42, of route 2 Beaverton was arrested Tuesday on a charge of threatening to commit a felony.

Mrs. Eva M. Brower of West Slope reported that her pocketbook was stolen from her home last Sunday. It contained money, checks, bus tickets and ration books.

Theft of 25 gallons of gasoline from his barn was reported last week to the sheriff by J. H. Hoov, who has had a good victory garden and a good canning program will have the best chance for eating wisely through the months to come.

Ample Canning For Family Need Recommended

Homemakers who are familiar with the nutritional requirements of their families will make an effort this season to store, can and preserve an adequate variety of fruits and vegetables, says Mrs. Cecilia VanWinkle, war food emergency assistant. The variety should include vegetables of different colors, with greatest attention given to the green and yellow vegetables. The family who has a good home food supply will find that they are money ahead.

Food prices on the market are apt to be much higher than the progress makes demand greater.

The tomato is a fruit of major nutritional importance because of its high vitamin C value. It may be grown in abundance and with economy in most victory gardens. For a family of five it is recommended that 200 pounds of tomatoes be canned and served throughout 10 months when fresh tomatoes are not available. Planned savings of four times a week are advisable.

Of the leafy, green or yellow vegetables, it is considered necessary to preserve 200 plants for a family of five. They may be canned, frozen or brined. Four hundred pounds of this group of vegetables should be stored. In addition to that canned, beets, turnips, parsnips, onions, and radishes will be needed for variety along with the yellow, green, and leafy vegetables.

Vegetables that can be stored successfully should be kept by that means. Later, if they are found to be rotting, they may be canned or frozen to prevent food waste.

Two hundred fifty quarts of fruit canned or frozen is considered adequate for a family of five with the addition of 30 pounds of dried fruit and 250 pounds of stored food.

Nutritional requirements set up by government standards call for tomatoes or citrus fruit every day; a leafy green or yellow vegetable every day; potatoes every day; and at least one other serving of vegetable or fruit a day. The family who has had a good victory garden and a good canning program will have the best chance for eating wisely through the months to come.

READ THE RULES, UMP! By Collier

YOU'RE THE UMPIRE, REMEMBER, NOT THE WHOLE TEAM!

FARM War News

Editor's Note—This is a weekly feature presented in cooperation with the County USDA War Board, and designed to keep farmers informed on new developments in agriculture's wartime production program. AAA will assist OMF in distributing surplus War Property.

The agricultural adjustment agency has been directed by war food administrator Marvin Jones to assist WFA's office of materials and facilities in distributing materials and equipment released by the armed services, government corporations, and other public agencies, which can be used to implement farm programs.

The AAA's farmer-committee setup is to assist in this surplus disposal by supplying information on the location of areas where shortages exist; keeping county offices properly informed in order that farmers may learn which items are available and how much such items may be obtained; aiding in developing distribution arrangements; and performing at the request of OMF other administrative functions in the field required in connection with the distribution of surplus materials and equipment for all agricultural uses except uses of any government agency.

Idle Machinery May Be Drafted

Authority to requisition idle farm machinery which was effective last year has been extended through December 31, 1944, with the authority delegated to chairmen of the state agricultural conservation committees. Changes from last year's procedure are: Commercial motor vehicles are not included and the drafting of idle equipment for war duty is to be handled by the state rather than the federal government. Instead of the USDA war boards, idle motor vehicles are to be reported to the Office of Defense Transportation.

Remodeling Argus Building Started

Work of remodeling the front of the Argus building was started Wednesday morning with H. E. Thompson as contractor. The business and editorial offices are being enlarged to include the room formerly occupied by the barber shop. The enlarged quarters are expected to make for better service to customers.

The remodeling will also allow for a better arrangement for the commercial printing department on the second floor.

tion program first became fully effective, crop yields in this county have increased almost one-fourth above the 1923-32 average. Who could ask for a better dividend—particularly in the time of war—from the productivity we stored in our soil bank during years of peace, the AAA chief asks.

Should File Form for Meat Feed dealers and feed mixers who apply to the state of county AAA committee for seasonal protein meat should accompany their request with form FFA-6. The information furnished on this form is now used as a basis for making allocations to the states as well as within the state.

Cattle to Remain Near Record Instead of attaining the reduction in cattle numbers which was urged by WFA in its 1944 food production goals, present indications are that problems arising from the record of meat-records numbers of cattle will still face beef producers in 1945. Latest USDA figures on slaughter trends indicate that total cattle numbers will not be materially changed from the record numbers on hand at the first of the year.

Although cattle and calf slaughter in the first five months of 1944 has been much larger than in the first part of 1943, it was about the same in relationship to total numbers on farms.

Production of beef and veal has been greatly increased since 1933, when a low point was reached in the present cattle cycle, and production is now much larger than either of the previous high points in the end of this year slaughter of cattle and calves in 1944 was brought about by drought, while the last war stimulated a large production in 1943.

Container Order Eased WFA's order limiting the use of new wooden containers has been amended to not apply to cantaloupes, and melons, carrots, cauliflower, celery, cucumbers, grapes, lettuce, and radishes. Limitations on use of wooden containers for these commodities had been scheduled to go into effect on July 1.

Committee Discusses Practices The state tripe A committee and the state technical committee composed of representatives of state extension service, experiment station, soil conservation service, forestry service, farm security agency, and WFA.

WFA officials are hopeful that most farm needs will be met through more extensive control of the supplies.

Bees keepers who need sugar to feed bees for pollination purposes or by producing honey for home use may now obtain up to 10 pounds of sugar per bee colony each calendar year, the same as bee owners producing honey for sale. Under emergency weather conditions, OPA provides extra allowances of not more than 15 pounds of sugar. In such cases the local USDA War Board must certify that the bees would be lost if not given emergency feeding. Applications for such sugar should be made to local rationing boards.

WFA Restrictions Lifted Restrictions on the acquisition and use of organic nitrogenous fertilizer materials except edible oil-seed meals have been eliminated by the war food administration in the light of the eliminating restrictions as soon as they become unnecessary.

Edible oil-seed meal available for fertilizer purposes is restricted under the new order because of heavy requirements for livestock feed. Persons who wish to acquire edible oil-seed meals which may be available for use as fertilizer must obtain permission from the director of the office of materials and facilities of WFA.

Youngsters Harvest Milkweed School children in Texas, Arkansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Kansas will start the nation's milkweed harvesting drive this month by gathering the first of the million and a half pounds needed to manufacture life-jackets for American fighting men. The green or prairie milkweed which grows in parts of these five states will have a crop of pods ripe and ready to pick in July and August. The program will get under way in other states in September when the more common varieties of milkweed are ready for picking.

Cold Storage Increase Expected Sufficient increase in cold storage capacity is expected within the next few months to care for anticipated requirements, although the unexpected such as disruptions in shipping to the fighting fronts, droughts, and unusual slaughtering of cattle and hogs could precipitate a crisis in storage despite the availability of the new space. WFA points out that the Official figure that the crisis in food storage reached its peak recently with the heavy into-storage movement of eggs. Most of the 8,000,000 cubic feet of new storage space should be ready for use when the next high point in the volume of food in cold storage is reached later in the August or early fall. Restrictions on storage which were ordered early this year are also counted upon to have a beneficial effect when the fall harvests begin streaming into the nation's cold storage warehouses.

Soil Conservation In urging farmers and ranchers to carry out as much conservation work as possible in the interests of war food production and save vital soil reserves, N. E. Dodd, chief of the agricultural adjustment agency, points out that the nation's investment in soil conservation has proved sound. Since 1937, when the conservation and the state department of agriculture met on Thursday, July 6, to discuss the proposed 1945 agricultural conservation program and to make recommendations for its improvement. Also attending this meeting were the following county committees: J. P. French, Grant county; Carroll Barker, Gilliam county; Burrell Short, Klamath county; M. Tate, Marion county; and Floyd Jenks, Linn county.
