AAA Funds Allotted Obtain Technical Aid
Increased services to Oregon farmers in the form of technical assistance in planning and carrying out soil and water conservation practices will be offered under the 1946 agricultural conservation program, according to E. H. Miller, new chairman of the state AAA committee.

A provision of the state allocation of funds for practice payments to be used for furnishing conservation services to farmers, Miller said. The state AAA committee has earmarked $30,000 of the 1946 funds for that purpose.

This will make it possible, Miller explained, for county committees to furnish technical assistance to farmers in planning and carrying out such practices as reorganizing irrigation systems, drainage, contouring and terracing, and building dams for erosion control, stock water and irrigation.

The amount of such assistance available to farmers in any one county will depend on the amount budgeted by the county committee and the availability of qualified persons to employ. County allocations of funds for practice payments will be reduced by the amounts used for technical service to farmers. Committees will be able to use such funds to employ technical aid when needed.

All local, social and fraternal news should be turned in at the Argus for publication in that week not later than Tuesday and earlier if possible. If we settle back because the war is settled, we have settled nothing.

Cheese Output Up And Butter Down

Substantial increases in cheddar cheese production in Oregon were recorded in the first half of 1945 but creamery butter output dropped 20 per cent over the first half of 1944, reports the state director of agriculture, E. L. Peterson, in referring to the Oregon manufactured dairy products figures covering this period. The report was compiled jointly by the federal and state departments of agriculture.

Butter output in the first half of 1945 was 10,445,000 pounds; cheddar cheese production was 13,855,000 pounds from whole milk and 22,800 pounds from part skim milk. Total make of cream, cottage and other cheeses was over a million pounds greater than in the first half of 1944.

Nearly 25 million pounds of canned evaporated milk were handled for a new record. Sizeable gains were made in the output of condensed milks and in dry whole milk while drops were recorded in non-fat milk solids and other dried products except whole milk. Although there was a decrease of only 1.4 per cent in the total milk and cream received at dairy manufacturing plants, there was a large drop from 17,907 in the first half of 1944 to 13,890 in that period in 1945 in the average number of patrons delivering cream to Oregon plants. The number delivering whole milk was down slightly and averaged 11,070 patrons.

In Appreciation

A Message on behalf of our Retailers

DURING the war years it was imperative for us to ration Sicks' Select Beer to our retailers because of our firm policy to maintain the unvarying high quality of our product. Even now, with the return of peace, rationing must be continued until our plant expansion program will enable us to meet the tremendous demand with quality unimpaired. Through this trying period the cooperation of our dealers has been, and is, so generous that we wish to make public acknowledgment of it. The fact that Sicks' Select Beer is rationed requires a sacrifice on the part of your dealer and may mean that he cannot always immediately supply you. If this should ever occur, we ask your patience on his behalf as his stock will be regularly replenished. You may be sure it is always his desire, and ours, to serve you with as fine a Beer as it is possible to brew.
