

Home Burns; Fire Fighters Lack Water

McKINLEY-BLANKENHORN - Fire destroyed the house on the former James Jackson property last week. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Addison were residing in the house, which had been remodeled by later owners of the property. The fire started on the roof and was thought to have originated in a defective chimney. Lack of water prevented firefighters from effectively fighting before the Oregon fire department arrived. The Addison's saved their furniture on the second floor but lost everything upstairs and dishes and cooking utensils. They are temporarily staying with Mr. and Mrs. A. Franke while the new home they are building is being completed. They purchased a site from Mr. and Mrs. Franke.

Salerno, Spokane and other points. They report heavy grain crops with some of it down from heavy rains. Alfalfa hay crops are being burned in the woods to aid the growth of the next crop.

Milton Hansen entered Good Samaritan hospital Monday for surgical treatment.
