The boys and adult leaders spent two hours going through the Anderson smelters a week ago Tuesday and were all eyes during the tour. They spent the night at Butte, Mont., and the next day drove to Lower Falls in the park. The boys fished off the famous fishing bridge at Yellowstone lake the next day and also went in swimming. Walker reported that they caught enough fish to feed the group.

Then followed a jaunt to the Teton mountains and a return trip to Old Faithful on the 19th. The caravan spent Tuesday night at Twin Falls and was scheduled to arrive at Salt Lake City, Utah, Wednesday night.

IF AN EMPLOYEE

If you work for a man, in heaven's name work for him. If he pays wages that supply you your bread and butter, work for him, speak well of him, think well of him, stand by him, and stand by the institution he represents. I think if worked for a man I would work for him. I would not work for him part of the time but all of his time. I would give an undivided service to him. If I put to a pinch, an ounce of loyalty is worth a pound of cleverness. If you must vilify, condemn, and eternally disparage, why resign your position, and when you are outside, damn to your heart's content. But, I pray you, so long as you are part of an institution, do not condemn it. Not that you will injure the institution—that—but when you disparage the concern of which you are a part, you disparage yourself.—Elbert Hubbard.

Alcoa Co. Hires Many War Vets

received a special commendation for effective supervisory at Corvallis.

Many Medals
Another veteran of long service is Ed M. Janssen, who finished as a major in the army air force after five and a half years in service. During one year of overseas duty in the ETO Janssen went on 65 missions and collected a chest full of medals—and fortunately no wounds. He won the Croix De Guerre, Silver Star, Air medal with 12 oak leaf clusters, DFC with one leaf cluster and other DFC (oak leaf cluster) and others DeGuerre (oak leaf cluster). Janssen is now in the French to William Cyrus Jr. who was discharged as an arm sergeant after 26 months of overseas duty (30 months in uniform). Cyrus won the Purple Heart.

George W. Boyd, one of the four Alcoa majors, was in the service 35 months with 40 months overseas with the 41st division. He collected the Bronze star, Silver star, Purple Heart and other medals. Laurence L. Strait, an air forces 1st Lt., collected the DFC with one cluster and air medal with three clusters and others. Robert Harvey, the Bronze star with two battle stars. He was discharged as an army sergeant after 42 months in service, 18 overseas.

Another Alcoa major, Charles Munford, served 63 months with 12 months of that time overseas. He was with the 13th air force in the South Pacific.

The above will give readers a rough idea of what the Alcoa boys did in service, considering that the facts about the length of time in service, overseas duty, and medals these men have won are not available.

In order to say the above listed partial service records of the Alcoa war vets and the policy of the company toward hiring of ex-servicemen speak for themselves.
