Senator Morse Says Next Decade To Be Critical

Senator Wayne L. Morse, speaking at the fifth annual northwest regional conference of Congregational churches at Forest Grove Monday, said the next 10 years will be a most critical period both nationally and internationally. He called for patience and understanding, particularly with the American people in the role they must play.

The speaker said the most important problem faced by the United States is her international obligations in the 10 years ahead. The world of today is as different from when the war started as the Dark Ages from the industrial age, Morse explained.

The experience has attracted delegates from Oregon, Washington, Idaho, and Montana. Evenings have been devoted to lecture classes. George Thomas, Portland, leader in race relations, has been conducting a lecture series on "Minority Groups in the Northwest." Miss Lois Anderson, secretary-elect of the division of Christian education, and Miss Lois Hamer of Salem on "New Developments in Christian Education," and Miss Paule Geshill of New York, "The Work of the Missions Council."

Early afternoons at the conference have been given over to recreation. From 4 to 5 p. m. daily, Mrs. Walter C. Geisbach of Forest Grove has given lectures on "Women in the Church's Life," and by Fred S. Richards of Forest Grove on "Laymen at Work in the Church." The conference closes Friday noon.

Schedule of Grade Schools Announced

ment is crowded. Compulsory attendance age is seven. A child must stay in school until the age of sixteen or until he has finished the first twelve grades.

It is not yet too late to have the health of your children checked if it has not already been done. The most unforgivable breach of a parent's duty to children is to neglect their health. Good school work can be done only when the child is in good health. Any parent knowing of any particular ailments or even temporary ailments that will handicap a child's efforts, should inform the child's teacher.

Regular attendance at school is pretty much a matter of determination and is a strong factor in certain aspects of habit formation. Children should stay home when their health is impaired to the extent that they cannot do justice to their school work or when the health of others is being jeopardized. Also, now that our schools to this school are based on attendance, this school can lose much money through children's absences.

Kindergarten children attend school for only a half day. The morning session begins at 9 a. m. and dismisses at 11:30. The afternoon session begins at 12:30 and dismisses at 2:30. It is impossible for the kindergarten children to be in school in so far as execution is concerned can appreciate and profit from those who cannot execute. To illustrate we cited the many children who cannot sing well but who do learn to appreciate and profit from the music made by others. Very often it is in the activities other than the regular classroom that children's special abilities are discovered.

Today's schools place a much greater emphasis upon the importance of ones being able to live cooperatively and constructively among his neighbors and upon being an all-round good citizen than it does on the acquisition of high efficiency in some subject matter that will contribute directly to making one's livelihood. The passing year has increased leisure hours for the majority of our people. So our schools in Oregon are attempting to answer that need in the education of our children.

Very much more could be said about our schools and this article is already very lengthy so we will close by saying that our school officials and school officials are always ready to answer the many questions that parents find it necessary to ask about our schools.

Last of Hillsboro elementary school teachers will be published next week.
