State's Green Guard Contest for 1947 Offering $230 in Prizes to Children

Twenty-six cash prizes totaling $230 are being offered to winners in the 1947 Green Guard contest, sponsored annually by the Keep Oregon Green association, according to Charles Ogle, executive secretary.

The contest closes the year's activities of the Green Guards, the junior auxiliary of the Keep Oregon Green movement. This is an opportunity for the more than 10,000 boy and girl members of Green Guard to participate, Ogle stated.

"A Page From Nature's Notebook" is to be the title of all Green Guard entries this year, Ogle pointed out. Guards may write about native birds, animals, shrubs, flowers and trees. In addition to giving identifying information they must tell how fire would effect the subject they select. Drawings may be substituted for written material or may accompany it for points in the contest.

Contest rules include other activities in addition to writing an essay, Ogle stated. Previously enrolled Green Guards should fill in their manuals, telling how they heped in the Keep Oregon Green activity during 1947; whether they reported fires, distributed Keep Green literature, or helped in other direct ways. Green Guards are cautioned not to send in the green-backed manual which has just been mailed to every Green Guard of record at Salem headquarters. This one is for use in 1948, Ogle said.

To allow every boy and girl in the Green Guards to participate, Ogle said the contest would not close until December 31, when all completed manuals must be at Salem. Posters announcing the contest have been sent out to over 2000 Oregon schools. First prize is $50; two seconds will earn $25; three third place winners will receive $10 and 20 fourth place winners will earn $5.

New Fire Station Urged by Firemen

lice quarters into a public rest room, which is badly needed.

Mayor E. A. Griffith, in expressing his appreciation for the work of the volunteer firemen, said the department is improving each year and that whenever they ask for anything it is for the good of the town.

Chairman Fred Engeldinger of the city utilities commission reported that with the organization of the commission the need for an adequate water supply was realized and that now with the improved system it is felt that the firemen are given at least half a chance to fight fire.

Sees Public Support

Justice of the Peace H. A. Kuratli expressed the belief that the public generally, realizing the needs of the department and appreciating the fine work of the volunteer firemen, would support a new fire station. He said our firemen have given more and asked less than any other group in the city. Kuratli advocated a regular milleage to provide a fund to take care of any possible disabilities of firemen in line of duty.

Support for the new station project and appreciation of the work of the firemen were also voiced by Councilmen Harry Seabold, Hayes Bickford, Verne McKinney, A. H. Abts; Park Commissioner Walker; Utility Commissioner J. M. Person; M. P. Cady, chairman union high school board and former mayor; Orange Phelps, former mayor, and Jake Weil, school board member and former councilman.

Person expressed the belief that the present city hall was located on expensive property that might better be used as business property and that the city-owned Bagley lot on Second avenue between Jackson and Edison should be utilized for a civic center, including city hall, fire station etc. In answer to this Dillon held that a central location was essential when a department is manned by voluntary firemen.

Vernon Hadley, who presided, called attention to the steady development of the fire department in equipment and membership. Firemen Don Garrigus and Paul Ringle also spoke briefly. Garrigus pointed out that the firemen give their share of Fourth of July receipts for fire department improvements. Ringle gave a financial report of the celebration.

Dillon quoted from a detailed report by the state fire marshal on the Imperial fire in which the state officer praised the local firemen for the manner in which they met the test in a great fire.

that the city is to retain 30 cents a month for each meter for maintenance, after which revenues are divided equally between the city and the meter company until the meters are paid for.

Annual revenue from the meters is expected to reach $12,000 out of which about $100 a month will be retained for maintenance and about $5000 will be applied as installment payment on the meters. City Manager J. W. Barney expects the meters will be paid for by June, 1950.

Revenue retained by the city from the meters is placed in the general fund for use in traffic control.

Increases Noted

Expenditures and receipts in most other classifications of the general fund increased over those of the preceding fiscal year, the report showed.

Largest expenditure from the general fund was for $20,848.75 for debt service. The police department ran in second place with expenditures of $12,761.08, followed by the fire department with $9681.42. A total of $5338.83 was spent on the municipal airport.

Current taxes made up $35,510.62 of the receipts. Fines and forfeitures accounted for $8850.50 and fees and licenses for $6762.04. The airport provided $6962.89.

Actual expenditures from the road fund totaled $30,127.41, exceeding receipts by $3595.11. In the last fiscal year, the city spent $13,359.77 on resurfacing of existing streets, $9585.18 on street maintenance, $2695.92 on traffic, $2197.97 on street cleaning, and $1730.49 on engineering.

Social Security Law Explained

The new social security law for veterans' dependents does not apply in cases where the veteran died while in service, when the veteran was honorably discharged from the service, or where the veteran died more than three years after discharge, County Service Officer Dolph Stuart pointed out this week.

In order for a veteran's survivors to qualify for benefits under this act the deceased veteran must have been in active military or naval service on or after September 16, 1940, and before the official end of the war, July 25, 1947, Stuart explained. The veteran must have had at least 90 days of service, if his service was less than 90 days, he must have been terminated by reason of a service-connected service-aggravated disability or injury.

The law applies to veterans who die or have died within three years after their discharge and who were discharged within four years and one day after the termination of the war.

expressed appreciation for the interest Rev. Warren has shown in the city's youth and in the larger problem of preventing a further increase in juvenile delinquency.

"Due to the varied factors present in each community, it is not possible to lay down hard and fast rules or prepare a blue-print which will apply in all localities," the FBI chief wrote.

"I am reluctant to make specific recommendations concerning Hillsboro without having the opportunity to make a first-hand study of the local situation," Hoover continued.

He added that he has "always advocated properly supervised programs designed to direct the boundless energies of youth into profitable and healthful fields" and that he wanted to "wish you every success in your endeavors."

Service Medals for Dependents Clarified

Next of kin of army servicemen who died in service may apply for service medals to the Chief, Demobilized Personnel Records Branch, Building 105, Records Center, St. Louis 20, Mo., it was pointed out this week by Dolph Stuart, county service officer. Medals will be sent out by the Marine corps, Navy and Coast Guard without application, he added.

Discharge papers and proof of relationship must be shown by next of kin of army veterans who have died since release from service. Additional details on procedure to be followed can be obtained from the service officer in Hillsboro, he said.
