

County Teachers Schedule 2-Day Meet in Reedville

About 125 Washington county teachers will meet in Reedville Monday and Tuesday for the first annual Work Conference for Teachers in one, two, three and four room schools. It was reported this week by Mrs. Florence Wittycombe, county elementary school supervisor.

Although teacher's institutes have been held annually in the county for several years, the yearly meeting was previously held for all elementary teachers. The new system of holding separate conferences for teachers in small and larger schools was instituted this year. One hundred thirty teachers attended a work shop for teachers in schools of more than four rooms October 27 in Beaverton.

The two-day conference next week, to be held in the Reedville grade school, will feature discussion and demonstrations on physical education, rhythm, science and new textbooks covering the field new school standards as they concern the teacher, arithmetic subjects from the state department of education, Miss Florence Beardley, state director of elementary education, and Miss Neva Dallas, and Miss Elizabeth Rader, new state supervisors of elementary education, are scheduled for prominent roles in the meetings.

Alfred Johnson, Hillsboro grade school instructor, will discuss physical education in small schools before the 7th and 8th grade section. Dr. H. M. Stolle, director of the Washington-Yamhill district health department, will speak on county health services. The conference will start at 9:15 a. m. with group singing led by Lowell Engelen, principal of Reedville grade school. Speakers will be introduced by County School Superintendent Austin Scraft and Mrs. Wittycombe. Several county school children will take part in demonstrations. Lunch will be served each day by the Reedville cafeteria.

Recognition Won By County Herd

COLUMBUS, Ohio, The herd of registered Jersey cattle owned by W. E. Lottman and Daughters, Cornhusk, is announced by the American Jersey Cattle Club from their offices here, as having completed a year's work in official herd improvement registry testing with an average production of 300 pounds of milk and 49 pounds of butterfat per cow. The herd contained an average of 16 milking cows during the year.

All tests on this herd were conducted by Oregon State college and verified by The American Jersey Cattle Club.

In accomplishing this production the Lottman herd has joined the select group of Jersey herds in which the cows have produced more than one time the amount of butterfat obtained from the average dairy cow in the United States.

The Minimal TB Lesion

With the great modern developments in the spread of knowledge about pulmonary tuberculosis and in mass X-ray techniques for discovering cases of the disease, progressively more cases are being discovered in the early stages. It is therefore most important for everyone to understand the significance of the early stage, or "minimal lesion," as it is termed medically.

The minimal lesion is the early stage of tuberculosis of the lungs. It can by no means be regarded as a "light case" of tuberculosis. There is no such thing as tuberculosis in its early stages. It is a slowly progressive disease. Unless the case is given proper treatment quickly, it is as likely to progress rapidly to a fatal end, as in a case discovered in an advanced stage. In fact, acute, almost explosive onset and rapid progression are typical of the minimal lesion, in the experience of doctors who have studied many cases.

Tuberculosis in the minimal stage causes few or no outward symptoms. The typical TB symptoms such as fatigue, loss of appetite and weight, cough, expectoration, fever, indigestion and hoarseness, which might cause a person to call a doctor, do not appear until the disease has advanced to a point where cure may be difficult, time-consuming and costly. Minimal lesions are usually discovered by chest X-ray—either in routine examination by the family doctor or group surveys of apparently healthy persons in communities, industrial plants and schools, or when patients are admitted to a hospital or clinic for reasons other than tuberculosis.

While these X-rays serve to screen out early lesions, no doctor will make a diagnosis of pulmonary tuberculosis on the basis of a chest X-ray alone, particularly on the miniature film frequently used in group surveys. In the minimal stage the lung involvement is so small that it can barely be seen even by the X-ray. The doctor will make many other tests before he can determine whether the shadows he sees on the X-ray plate is an active tuberculosis lesion.

Any person in whom pulmonary tuberculosis is discovered in the early stage may consider himself relatively fortunate. In most cases the disease can be arrested with minimum loss of time. But the patient should take no chances. He must not think that he can get well without a considerable period of bed rest under medical care, preferably in a tuberculosis hospital or sanatorium. Because of the serious potentialities of the minimal lesion, immediate treatment is necessary.

In the next article, hearing defects will be discussed. This column is sponsored in the interest of better health, by the Washington County Public Health Association, Room 9, Peterson Building, Hillsboro.

Many G. I. Loans Made in Oregon

G. I. loans approved for Oregon veterans have passed the 10,000 mark with the aid of 238 grants in October. Thomas M. Craig, VA contact representative in this area, reported today.

These approvals cover 10,188 loans totaling $49,778,404, on which the VA has agreed to guarantee $33,616,625. Craig has been informed by the agency's regional office in Portland.

More than 80 per cent of all GI loans in this state are for homes. The VA aide pointed out. The three categories include: Homes, $276 loans for $43,046,076; businesses, 1373 for $4,550,182; farms, 539 for $2,182,146.

"Loan provisions of the GI bill," Craig explained, "were designed to help the veteran who is a good risk but by reason of his military service is unable to make a down payment, particularly in acquiring a home. The VA guarantees half the loan, with this half going up to $4000 on real property or $2000 on non-real estate, such as business equipment or supplies."

"Craig meets with veterans each Thursday morning in the city hall at Hillsboro.

Local FHA Head Changes Schedule

Victor S. Madson, local supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration, will be in his office on the corner of Third and Lincoln every Tuesday effective next week, he reported here. His office days previously were Wednesday. The office is open Mondays.

Spring Pig Goal for 1948 Released Here

A 1948 spring pig goal about six per cent over the 1947 pig crop has been announced by the U. S. department of agriculture. The spring pig goal calls for 50 million pigs compared with the 1947 spring crop of 47 million pigs, the local agricultural conservation office reported.

A more direct approach to saving grain for human consumption both in this country and for sharing with hungry people in other countries, department officials again advise farmers to send hogs to market at lighter-than-normal weights. State goals for the 1948 spring pig crop will be established with cooperation of state USDA Councils.

through Fridays from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Madson said funds are available for annual farm operating loans as well as insured mortgage loans. Applications may be made out in the local F. H. A. office, he added.

Honors Plaque Award System To be Dropped

Nine scoutmasters from the Hillsboro Boy Scout district last week approved of a new award system to be used in scout honor courts in this district during 1948. It was reported here by C. Henry Nelson, district chairman.

Although Nelson would not reveal details of the new system, he did say that an attendance and honors plaque would not be given next year. Under the present plan the attendance and honors plaque is rotated on a monthly basis to troop-winning the monthly honor court competition. The troop winning the trophy the most times during the year is awarded permanent possession of it.

Nelson said the new system will be adopted as a means of giving recognition not only to first place winning troops at honor courts but also to troops winning second and third places. Approval of the plan was given at a meeting of scout leaders with Nelson last week.

The group met to discuss problems of scoutmasters and to outline the scouting program for the remainder of this year and for 1948. Approval of a district Camporee to be held in May and for a fall rally to be held here next year was given. Proposed plans for a summer trip for local scouts who qualify were referred to the camping and activities committee for study. The group also decided to continue Boy Scout activities in paper drives and
